VICTORY STIRS WALL STREET

Greatest Activity Is Witnessed Since Northern Pacific Panic.

STOCKS GO KITING

Sales of Shares Over 2,300,000, and of Bonds Nearly $14,000,000.

ALL ADVANCED POINT OR TWO

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

President Roosevelt's election, and the Republican victory which the speculative community of Wall street had foreseen and had gradually been discounting by establishing higher security prices, had the effect today of stirring up greater activity in the stock market than has been witnessed since the memorable Northern Pacific panic of May 9, 1901.

On that day record-breaking sales on the New York stock exchange were made on a declining market, but the reverse movement took place today, practically acclaiming President Roosevelt's election as an augury of good to the financial and commercial world.

They came down to Wall street today in hundreds. Many brought their wives and sisters, and obtained cards of admission to the gallery of the exchange.

At 10 o'clock the expected wide opening in the prominent speculative issues materialized. Concentrated sales were reported, the brokers evidently having accumulated and distributed the early orders before the market opened. For example, 40,000 shares of Steel Corporation were reported as the initial transactions in the preferred and common stocks. This meant that within a minute of the opening more than $2,000,000 worth of these securities had changed hands, while similar transactions, involving millions of dollars, passed from one hand to another simply by a nod of a broker's head.

All prices were higher from one to two points. Steel preferred sold at 85½, Southern Pacific was up two points to 62¾; Pennsylvania sold at 136½, as compared with 135¾; Rock Island at 33¾, as compared with 34, and Sugar Refining at 147, as against 145½ on Monday. Union Pacific was transferred in enormous blocks at higher prices.

The industrial stocks, particularly those of the iron and steel lines, were naturally helped by the removal of the fear that the tariff might be lowered and thus jeopardize the profits necessary for the payment of dividends. Special issues, such as the Metropolitan Street Railway shares, did not respond to the general strength, inasmuch as the defeat of the party with which the management is allied, it was thought, would not enhance.

According to the New York Herald's figures, 2,329,746 shares of stock were traded in, and $13,977,500 of bonds changed hands during the day. The market eased toward the close, but closed generally firm with substantial gains.

ANDREWS IS ELECTED FROM NEW MEXICO

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 9.—New Mexico has chosen as her delegate to congress William H. Andrews, regular Republican nominee, by a majority ranging from 4,500 to 5,000.

Senator Andrews' election is assured after one of the most bitter political campaigns in the history of the territory, Andrews was not only opposed by George P. Money, Democratic candidate, but also by Bernard S. Rodey, present Republican delegate in congress, who announced himself as an independent candidate.

The victory was won by Andrews' strenuous campaign. He visited every county in the territory, accompanied by Gov. Miguel A. Otero.

Andrews formerly occupied a prominent position in Pennsylvania politics, being a lieutenant until recently of the late Senator Quay. He located in New Mexico several years ago, and constructed the Santa Fe Central railroad. He is now building the Albuquerque Eastern and is heavily interested in mining and cattle properties.

BRYCE PAYS COMPLIMENT TO REPUBLICAN SYSTEM

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—James Bryce, at a farewell reception given to him by the City club tonight, took the quiet and good nature with which the minority of the American people have accepted Tuesday's verdict at the polls as the text of his address, and pointed to it as the best possible proof of the high degree of excellence to which Republican institutions have attained.

"No other country has attempted on so large a scale, or has succeeded in doing, what I saw going on yesterday," he said. "The voice of the whole American people was making itself heard in every hamlet, and in the largest cities at the same hour, and with a peacefulness which could not fail to excite the highest admiration.

"There was no mistake about the voice being that of the whole person, and it proved that you have gone far toward solving your problem of government."

ADVERTISES FOR GOOD EVIDENCE

Russia Will Pay for Testimony to Support North Sea Story.

HER WEAKNESS IS BETRAYED

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9.—The exceeding weakness of the Russian version of the Dogger Bank incident and the absolute absence of independent evidence is shown in a notice issued this morning and published in all the newspapers, offering on behalf of the government a generous reward for any evidence substantiating the presence of torpedo boats along the route of the fleet.

In diplomatic circles this is read as meaning the end of the matter. Russia, without much further ado, will make the "amende honorable."

At the British embassy the question is looked upon as satisfactorily concluded, while the Russian government is equally satisfied, one great point having been gained, namely Rojestvensky's fleet pursued its voyage without hindrance.

WILL FLOAT THEIR LOAN IN AMERICA

New York Syndicate Formed to Underwrite $30,000,000 Issue for Japan.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—News that half of the new $60,000,000 Japanese loan would be offered in this country was confirmed by Khun, Loeb & Co. today, the bankers in charge of the American flotation. The bonds will be offered here on a basis to net 7½ per cent, a considerable portion of the loan having already been provisionally placed in this city. All the large insurance corporations will subscribe, although the advance bids are not expected to be as heavy as in the case of the first.

A syndicate of bankers has been formed to underwrite the American allotment. Although the syndicate members would not say today how many advance subscriptions had been received, it was said several of the large subscribers to previous loans had signified their intention of taking moderate lots. Some of these bids are believed to call for as many as $1,000,000, and with subscriptions received from capitalists and institutions in the west, a large amount of the bonds has already been purchased.

STERNBERG IS READY TO NEGOTIATE TREATY

Pact With Germany Likely to Be Taken Up at Once and Pushed to Completion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Baron Sternberg, the German ambassador, was at the state department today and it is understood he is prepared to proceed at once with the German treaty. The Italian and Swiss treaties are almost complete.

It is known that a number of the countries of Central and South America stand ready to enter into similar arrangements with the United States, but as a preliminary, it is desirable they adhere to The Hague peace convention, under which any arbitration resulting from the arbitration treaties must be tried.

They cannot do this in the absence of a special authorization from the powers that originally framed The Hague treaty, and this cannot be had until the second Hague conference is assembled in conformity with the call recently issued by President Roosevelt.

GREAT BRITAIN WELCOMES INVITATION OF PRESIDENT

LONDON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt's invitation to Great Britain to take part in a second peace conference at The Hague has been presented by Asbassador Choate to the foreign office. No formal answer has been made but the ambassador received verbal assurances of its cordial welcome.

Parker's Vote in Louisiana.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Nov. 9.—Additional returns indicate the plurality for the Parker and Davis electors in this state to be less than 30,000. In some counties the Democratic vote shows a decrease of 50 per cent under that polled at the state election in September.

WEST VIRGINIA REPUBLICAN SURE

Roosevelt's Plurality May Exceed 30,000—Senator Scott Certain of Re-Election.

DAWSON WINS BY OVER 20,000

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 9.—West Virginia seems to have kept pace with the rest of the Union at Tuesday's election. Returns which came in very slowly last night have been received today with considerable rapidity and the result can be definitely stated. The Democrats concede that Roosevelt has carried the state by over 10,000 while the Republicans claim that Roosevelt's plurality will be the largest ever given to any candidate by the state and may exceed 30,000.

The Democrats have not conceded the election of W. M. O. Dawson, the Republican nomine for governor, although his election is claimed by the Republicans by over 20,000.

State Chairman Owen S. McKinney of Fairmount, says: "We do not concede Dawson's election."

Chairman Elliott Northcott of the Republican state committee says: "We have carried West Virginia by over 30,000 for Roosevelt, over 20,000 for Dawson, and the entire state ticket and we will have 48 majority on joint ballot in the legislature and have elected all five of our congressmen."

John J. Cornwell, the Democratic nominee for governor, ran far ahead of his ticket and cut down Dawson's majority materially. Official returns are being carefully watched by the Democrats to see if by any chance Cornwell could have a majority.

A non-partisan prediction is that Roosevelt's plurality over Parker is between 20,000 and 25,000, and may exceed these figures; that Dawson is elected governor by a plurality probably exceeding 4,000, and all five of the Republican congressional nominees are successful. Dayton in the second had the closest figure, his plurality over Stewart W. Walker, the Democratic candidate, being about 1,000. Dovener, in the First district, has about 3,600; Woodyard in the Fourth about 2,500; Gaines in the Third, about 2,000, and Hughes' majority in the Fifth district is estimated to be from 2,000 upward.

The legislature is Republican in both branches without taking into consideration the hold-over senators. With several counties in doubt, there are 52 Republicans elected to the house of delegates and 27 Democrats. To the senate, 11 Republicans are elected, two Democrats without doubt, and probably two others in the Seventh and Ninth districts.

CORPSES ARE PITCHED INTO SHALLOW WATER

Correspondents Tell Sickening Tales of Port Arthur's Wretched Garrison.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Special dispatches from Port Arthur and Chefoo in this morning's newspapers give descriptions of the terrible condition of the besieged. The Daily Mail's correspondent before Port Arthur described the Russian killed and those taken prisoners as greatly emaciated, and asserts the men subsist on a daily ration of less than two pounds of black bread.

The Daily Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent declares the task of the burying of bodies of the slain at Port Arthur is now beyond control, and that the corpses are simply pitched into the new dock excavations near Golden Hill, where there is only a few feet of water.

The condition of helpless women is heartrending. Several groups of them going to market have been blown to pieces. The street scenes are said to be sickening.

Bennett Burleigh also sends to the Daily Telegraph a harrowing picture of the condition of the wounded in Port Arthur, of whom large numbers are lying unattended within the inner forts.

Naval Budget More Than $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(Special)—Admiral Dewey and his colleagues on the general board of the navy have decided the fleet should this year be increased by the addition of three 16,000-ton battleships, and at least two scout cruisers. The entire naval budget will be something more than $100,000,000.

PLACE IN CABINET FOR CORTELYOU

Postmaster Generalship Awaits the Republican National Chairman.

URGED TO TAKE A VACATION

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican national committee is not disposed to accept the advice of his family and friends to take a vacation and rest. President Roosevelt, however, will urge him to do so. It is generally accepted here that Mr. Cortelyou will become postmaster general almost whenever it suits his convenience to assume that portfolio.

Postmaster General Wynne will not return to the position of first assistant postmaster general, from which he was recently appointed. His brief service in the cabinet had more than ever convinced the president of his level judgment and ability, and he will be given an important office under the administration. It has been sugested that he might receive a diplomatic post.

The rewards of a victorious national chairman are large in prestige and usually the men who hold this position are rich enough to be satisfied with the glory. Mr. Cortelyou is not an independently rich man. There has been some speculation about the salary he would receive. Although his services were such as to command almost any figure he desired, it is understood that he contented himself with suggesting he be recompensed at the same rate he received as secretary of commerce and labor, $8,000 a year. Of course, his expenses, which were considerable, were paid by the committee.

ROBBED VAULT, THEN LOCKED TREASURER IN

Arizona Official Found Gagged and Bound, While $15,000 Is Missing from Safe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PRESCOTT, ARIZ., Nov. 9.—James B. Storm, county treasurer of this county, has been found locked in the steel vault of his office, bound and gagged, with $15,000 missing from the cash funds of the treasury.

Mr. Storm had been in the vault 16 hours when found today by his daughter. He says that about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while seated in his office, two men entered the door with handkerchiefs tied over their faces, and, presenting a revolver to his head, ordered him to throw up his hands. Storm complied. The men closed the door of the office and produced a string of baling wire, with which they securely bound his feet and hands. They forced a handkerchief into his mouth and pushed him inside the vault.

After gathering up their plunder and leisurely ransacking the office for more money, the men closed the door of the vault, locked it and departed. Storm was unable to give any accurate description of the men.

THE ROOSEVELT TIDE GOES ON

Great Victory Increases as the Ballots Are Counted.

MISSOURI IS IN LINE

Largest Popular Plurality in the History of Presidential Elections.

SURPRISES IN MANY STATES

Some of the Nation's Notable Pluralities

1904—Roosevelt, 1,536,500.
1900—McKinley, 849,790.
1896—McKinley, 601,854.
1892—Cleveland, 380,810.
1880—Garfield, 7,018.
1872—Grant, 762,991.
1864—Lincoln, 407,342.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt will receive 343 votes in the electoral college against 133 for Judge Parker. And still the Roosevelt tidal wave sweeps on and on. It has buried the Democracy of every northern state by phenomenally large majorities. It has swept the country clean from the Atlantic to the Pacific, north of the solid south, and has now overflowed the borders and submerged one of the most important of the rock-ribbed Democratic states of that section.

Missouri has gone Republican. Her 18 electoral votes will be cast for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. This is one of the great surprises of the election, the development being even more unexpected than the election of a Democratic governor in Massachusetts, while that state went for Roosevelt by upwards of 90,000. Senator F. M. Cockrell of Missouri, will be succeeded by a Republican.

Was a Personal Victory.

The magnitude of the personal victory of the president grows as complete returns come in. The president's plurality in New York state is 174,601. To show that he was the salvation of the Republican state ticket in this state, it is only necessary to give the plurality of Mr. Higgins for governor over Judge Herrick, which is 76,822. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Higgins ran 97,869 behind the national ticket in the state.

In nearly all the eastern states the president's pluralities are mounting skyhigh. That in New Jersey is about 70,000. If Mr. Roosevelt had only polled the vote that was given to him in the Republican poll of 23,000 Mr. Stokes would have been defeated, because he ran about that number of votes behind the national ticket.

Maryland, indeed, seems to be the only doubtful state in the whole country that is at all close. The probability late tonight is that Roosevelt will have only a few hundred majority in the state. Colorado is heavily Republican on the national ticket, but the Democrats may win on the governorship.

Pennsylvania Plurality 490,000.

Pennsylvania has furnished a plurality of 490,000. Illinois reaches to nearly a quarter of a million. Kansas is nearly 100,000; Michigan is 142,000; Minnesota is 100,000; Ohio is 200,000.

Congress will be even more heavily Republican than was indicated in the returns of Tuesday night. These indicated that the Republican majority of 34 in the present house would be over 68 in the next. It is likely to be in excess of that. J. W. Babcock, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, has been re-elected in Wisconsin. Representative Cowherd, the chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, has probably been defeated in Missouri. Mr. Cowherd voiced the general Democratic sentiment today when in telegraphing his congratulations to Mr. Babcock he said:

Republican First Time Since Rebellion.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Wayne county was carried by the Republicans for the first time since the Rebellion.

IS A KEYSTONE IN VERY TRUTH

Pennsylvania Gives Largest Plurality Ever Given by Any State.

IT IS OVER 490,000

Also Means Tremendous Potentiality in Councils of State and Nation.

KNOX WILL SUCCEED HIMSELF

History is Made By Pennsylvania's Vote

Complete returns from 55 of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania and estimates of the total in the remaining 12 counties show that Roosevelt has 824,907 votes, Parker 339,495, a plurality for Roosevelt of 485,512. The official count will undoubtedly increase Roosevelt's plurality to 490,000, and possibly more.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 9.

Senator Penrose, Republican state chairman, is immensely pleased over the result of yesterday's election.

That the magnificent triumph of the Republican national administration, of which President Roosevelt is the visible head, should have pleased him was to have been expected. But it was the part played by Pennsylvania, the banner Republican state, the keystone of the arch of national progress, protection and prosperity, which inflates Senator Penrose's sense of personal satisfaction, and justifies his personal pride.

The result of yesterday probably touched the high-water mark of Republican majorities for a generation to come in Pennsylvania. A Republican majority of 490,000 in a presidential year was never given before. It may never come again. But it did come, and it came at a time when Senator Penrose, as state chairman, was at the helm of the Republican organization. For this he is also thankful, and his gratification is shared by his associate members of the Republican state committee, the party leaders and the rank and file. President Roosevelt and National Chairman George B. Cortelyou have sent personal telegrams of thanks and congratulations to Chairman Penrose.

Majority is Over 490,000.

Late tonight Chairman Penrose, assisted by Col. W. R. Andrews, secretary of the state committee, prepared an estimate based on unofficial, though correct returns, after which Chairman Penrose made the following statement:

"The Republican majority in Pennsylvania is considerably over 490,000. All the Republican nominees for congress have been elected in the state, with the exception of the Thirteenth district, consisting of Berks and Lehigh counties. The Republicans elected two members of the legislature in Reading, elected the entire ticket in Lehigh county and carried the county for congressional nominee by 554.

"Twenty-five out of the 26 senatorial districts have been carried by the Republicans by very large majorities, and the Republican nominees in 187 out of 204 legislative districts have been elected, leaving 17 Democrats in the house and 10 in the senate. Out of 67 counties in the state the Democrats carried only five, or possibly six, with a total Democratic plurality of 3,058.

"While there was a great Republican landslide all over the country, it is gratifying to Pennsylvanians to feel that Pennsylvania is still far in the lead in the Republican column. No state gave a majority approaching the majority in the city of Philadelphia alone, of over 180,000, and only two or three gave a majority surpassing that of Allegheny county, which will doubtless reach 60,000 or more.

The Record Is Historic.

"The majority in Pennsylvania is greater than that ever given by any state for any party. It is an evidence of the splendid organization existing in the state of Pennsylvania, which brought directly to the attention of the people the issues involved in the campaign, and the wonderful prosperity that the country owes to the McKinley policies. Of course, a great many Democrats voted the Republican ticket, and others failed to vote at all. The state committee is in a position to realize, and certainly appreciates, the efficient and tireless work of the various local organizations in contributing to this great result."

Pennsylvania will have the largest Republican representation in the caucus which will select the speaker of the next national house of representatives. This will be 31 representatives from Pennsylvania, while New York will have but 26 or 27.

Insurance Commissioner Israel W. Durham, leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization, left tonight for a two weeks' visit to Lake Placid in the Adirondacks. Before leaving Mr. Durham gave out a very significant interview, which follows:

Knox His Own Successor.

"The result of Tuesday's election gives the Republican party of Pennsylvania the largest vote on joint ballot that it has had in this state for many years in the general assembly. Senator Knox is his own logical successor, both for the long and short term in the United States senate. Many voted for the legislative candidates with that understanding, and I have not heard of opposition to him from any quarter. I know that the Philadelphia delegation will support him unanimously, and, from what I have heard from other sections of the state, I believe he will receive a unanimous vote in the Republican caucus, both for the balance of the late Senator Quay's term

Chairman Penrose, accompanied by the Hon. Henry F. Walton, Congressman George A. Castor, Col. W. R. Andrews and Magistrate E. W. Devlin leave tomorrow for a 10 days' trip to the St. Louis fair, after which they will spend a week or more in Florida.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

MARYLAND STILL CLAIMED BY OPPOSING CHAIRMEN

Indications Are That Roosevelt Has Carried State by Small Plurality. Mudd Is Re-Elected.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—On the face of the unofficial returns of the votes cast on Tuesday, received here up to a late hour tonight, Maryland is Republican on the presidential ticket by a small majority. An official count may be required to decide the result. Three Republican congressmen—Frank C. Wachter, Sydney E. Mudd and George A. Pearre, are sure. Three Democrats, Thomas A. Smith, J. F. C. Talbot, (re-elected), and Jorn Gill, are elected. Congressman W. H. Jackson, Republican, of the First district, claims that frauds or trick ballots were used in the district, and says that he will contest the seat before the house of representatives.

Chairman Hanna, Collector of Customs William F. Stone, of Baltimore, who was sergeant-at-arms at the St. Louis convention, and other prominent Republicans, still claim that Maryland rolled up at least 1,500 majority for the presidential ticket, while Chairman Vandiver of the Democratic state committee, and other leaders of that party aver that the electoral vote of the state will be cast for Parker and Davis.

LITTLE RHODY'S HUGE VOTE.

Only McKinley's Plurality in 1896 Exceeded That Obtained by Roosevelt—Utter for Governor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9.—Complete state returns show that in yesterday's election President Roosevelt received the largest vote ever cast in Rhode Island and his plurality of 16,000 is greater, with the exception of that of 1896, than any presidential candidate ever was given here. Lieut.-Gov. George H. Utter (Rep.), who succeeds L. F. C. Garvin (Dem.), candidate for a third term, had but 594 plurality over his opponent. Gov. Garvin carried every city in the state, but was defeated in the country districts. The next general assembly will stand 23 Democrats to 59 Republicans in joint ballot.

Representatives D. L. D. Granger (Dem.) and A. S. Capron (Rep.) were re-elected to congress in the First and Second districts respectively.

CARNEGIE MUSEUM TO DIG FOR MAMMOTH

SHARON, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The Carnegie museum of Pittsburgh will be granted permission by the city council of South Sharon to excavate over at least two acres of territory. Recently laborers were digging a sewer when the tusk of a mammoth was unearthed. It measured six feet in length. Later on several more bones were uncovered. The tusk was sent to the museum.

President's Reply to Mrs. McKinley.

CANTON, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. William McKinley Wednesday morning sent to President Roosevelt greeting on his victory. This afternoon came the response: "I am deeply touched by your message and appreciate it more than any other greeting I have received." According to the attendants at the McKinley home, the widow of the late president seemed much pleased with the American people's choice of a chief executive and the sweeping victory of the Republican party.

Largest Plurality in Cuyahoga's History.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9.—Cleveland city and Cuyahoga county gave Roosevelt a plurality of 34,064, the largest ever given a candidate for an electoral office in this county. R. C. Wright, for county auditor, was the only Democrat elected on the county ticket.

NO ENTHUSIASM FOR LANSDOWNE

Plea for Peaceful Settlement With Russia Greeted by Silence.

BOLD BID FOR INTERVENTION

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Lansdowne, in the absence of Premier Balfour, at the historic lord mayor's banquet tonight, made a strong plea for peace and arbitration on behalf of the British government. Between the lines of every reference the foreign minister made to the Russo-Japanese war was an urgent plea, amounting almost to a demand, that it might be settled by arbitration. It was a carefully prepared statement, made before what is considered the most representative gathering of leading men of Great Britain. As such, it was generally interpreted as a bolder bid for intervention than has yet emanated from any neutral power.

By most of his hearers tonight, however, Lord Lansdowne's utterances were regarded almost as a plea for Russia. A dead silence greeted him as, after pointing out that the two governments in good faith believed, in contradictory statements of facts, he asked: "Could we have done better than get full apology and compensation and leave the question of facts to an international tribunal with a guarantee of punishment of any who may be found guilty?"

The 250 guests, in addition to Former Mayor Ritchie, who is succeeded by John Pound, and the marquis and marchioness of Lansdowne, included the archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Randall T. Davidson, the members of the cabinet, the foreign representatives, members of parliament and other prominent persons.

Rebuke to War Spirit.

Lord Lansdowne said in part:

"At this moment, contemplating the progress of the terrible struggle between two brave and gallant nations in the far east, can one of us contemplate without regret the legion after legion of brave men being led forth to meet their fate, and their ruined homes and broken hearths? We can conceive no more terrible punishment than the remorse of any minister or body of ministers who, from the loss of temper or desire of popularity, brought upon the country the scourge and calamity of needless war.

"At this auspicious moment I am able to announce to you that not only the peace of the country is unbroken but, so far as I am able to foresee, there is no reason why it should not remain unbroken. Not only have we had the good fortune to avoid war, but by strict neutrality and wise international arrangements we have done something to restrict the area of hostilities. The country, however, has not altogether escaped anxieties. For the last few days we have been face to face with an incident which moved the people of this country, an incident which moved the people of this country as few other incidents have done.

"The incident of October 21 in the North sea was an attack on British citizens, and an affront to the British flag which, if intentional, I would rather not contemplate the consequences. It was a deplorable and unaccountable blunder, but I am bound to add that recent evidence has satisfied the British government that the Russian government believed in good faith a fact different from what we supposed, and that each party was convinced of the justice of its own cause. Great Britain has adopted the only course in referring the matter to an independent and impartial tribunal, and we found no difficulty in arriving at the principal questions, nor in deciding that the terms for their reference under The Hague convention were such as we could accept.

The Vigo Witnesses.

"After detailing what would be the procedure of the court, Lord Lansdowne referred to the smallness of the number of Russian officers left at Vigo, and said:

"It was not for us to assume the responsibility for the selection of the officers. That rested with Russia, and it would be a great mistake to relieve her of the responsibility.

"The foreign secretary added the government had received assurance during the last day or two that the Russian officers were those who were directly implicated, and if the inquiry showed otherwise culpable, they also would be punished. Great Britain had received a full expression of regret, a promise of ample compensation and a guarantee against a recurrence, with security for all neutral commerce, and promise of the punishment of the guilty persons. Was it possible to secure more?

"Continuing, Lord Lansdowne referred to other questions which had been largely cleared up, so that since July no British ship has been seized by Russian vessels.

Sees Good in the War.

"I am sanguine enough to say," Lord Lansdowne remarked, "that good is likely to come from the struggle in the far east. It is my hope and belief that this terrible war will give a stimulus to the existing desire for some less clumsy and brutal method of adjusting international differences.

"I myself have signed no less than five treaties of arbitration. Only yesterday the American ambassador, Mr. Choate, asked me if we were prepared to sign a similar treaty with America. I have also lately been asked by President Roosevelt, to whom we may offer congratulations on his return to power by a vast majority, to participate in a second international peace conference.

"While reserving the right to consider subjects and terms of reference, we did not hesitate to say we were ready to participate, and to tell the president that we wished him God speed in the unusual work he has undertaken. But is not there a better way than this? Is it not better to arrange matters that a dispute shall not arise at all?"

Lord Lansdowne then referred to the Anglo-French arbitration treaty and said he hoped it would be adopted by a large majority of the chamber of deputies. He said it would be effectual in removing dangerous and difficult questions from international controversy. He saw something of this in the assistance Great Britain had received during the last few days from the French government in bringing about an amicable settlement between Great Britain and Russia.

Roosevelt Will Have Plurality of 70,000 in Allegheny County

In the vote for president, 23 districts are missing. In 1900, 19 of these precincts gave McKinley 2,675 votes and Bryan 943. The other four have been created since 1900. By crediting Roosevelt with the 2,675, his total is made 90,103, and the 943 cast for Bryan gives Parker a total of 21,622. This would give Roosevelt a plurality of 68,481. As the McKinley vote will be exceeded and the Bryan vote decreased, it is certain that the Republican presidential plurality will run over 70,000, the greatest in the history of the county. In 1896 McKinley had 47,909 and in 1900 44,469. The total Democratic vote in the county this time will be about 21,000, or almost 8,000 less than Bryan polled in 1896, and 7,000 below his vote in 1900.

There are 30 districts missing from the returns in the vote for supreme court justice. Elkin has a plurality of 54,744 as the count now stands. He will run at least 17,000 behind Roosevelt. His opponent, Justice Thompson, will fall 4,800 below Parker. This is occasioned by the misunderstanding about the method of voting a straight ticket. There will be about the same decrease in the totals of the candidates for county offices.

The plurality of Armstrong, the Republican candidate for coroner, over Herst, Democrat, with 33 districts missing, is 54,580.

The following are the 23 districts missing in the presidential returns: Second district of the Seventh ward, Pitsburgh; first district, Fifst ward, McKeesport; Second district, Fifth ward, McKeesport; Second precinct, Bellevue; Edgeworth; Second precinct, North Braddock; First district, First ward, Wilkinsburg; Fourth district, First ward, Wilkinsburg; Sixth district, Baldwin township; Seventh district, Baldwin township; Third district, Elizabeth township; First district, Finley township; Second district, Forward township; Third district, Forward township; Franklin township; First district, Harrison township; Marshall township; Second district, Mifflin township; Seventh district, Mifflin township; Ninth district, Mifflin township; First district, Ohio towaship; Second district, Sewickley Heights township.

On the Magnens courtship the returns are missing from the following named districts—30 of them: Seventh district, Fourteenth ward; Thirteenth district, Fourteenth ward; Twelfth district, Twenty-first ward; Second district, Seventh ward; First district, Ninth ward; Second district, Twenty-second ward—Pittsburgh; Eleventh district, Second ward; Fourteenth district, Second ward—Allegheny; First district, First ward—McKeesport; Second district, Fifth ward, McKeesport; Second district, Bellevue; Edgeworth; Second district, North Braddock; First district, First ward; Wilkinsburg; Fourth district, First ward; Wilkinsburg, Sixth district—Baldwin township, Seventh district; Baldwin township, Third district—Elizabeth township; Finley township, Second district; Forward township, Third district; Forward township, Franklin township, First district; Harrison township; Marshall township, Second district; Mifflin township, Seventh district; Mifflin township, Ninth district; Mifflin township, First district; Ohio township, second district; Sewickley Heights township.

In addition to these missing districts on the supreme court vote, the returns of votes cast for Samuel G. Thompson in the Eighth district of the Third ward and in the First district of the Twelfth ward, Allegheny, are also missing.

In the total of the vote cast for coroner, the districts missing number 33, as follows: Seventh district, Fourteenth ward; Thirteenth district, Fourteenth ward; Twelfth district, Twenty-first ward; Second district, Seventh ward; First district, Ninth ward; Second district, Twenty-second ward—Pittsburgh; Eighth district, Third ward; Ninth district, Third ward; Eleventh district, Second ward; Fourteenth district, Second ward; First district, Twelfth ward—Allegheny; First district, First ward—McKeesport; Second district, Fifth ward; McKeesport, Second district—Bellevue; Edgeworth; Second district, North Braddock; First district, First ward; Wilkinsburg, Fourth district, First ward; Wilkinsburg, Sixth district; Baldwin township, Seventh district; Baldwin township, Third district; Elizabeth township; Finley township, Second district; Forward township, Third district; Forward township; Franklin township, First and Second districts; Harrison township; Marshall township, Second; Seventh and Ninth districts; Mifflin township, First of Ohio township; Second of Sewickley Heights township.

PRODUCED MAJOR PART OF THE RAIL OUTPUT

Steel Corporation Also Manufactured 40.4 Per Cent of the Country's Pig Iron.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Publication of the official figures of iron and steel production for 1903, makes pertinent comparisons of the production of the Steel Corporation with the country's total.

The Steel Corporation last year produced 64.6 per cent of the total rail output, 40.4 per cent of the total pig iron produced in the United States, 68.2 per cent of the Lake Superior ore, 43.8 per cent of all the iron ore, and 72.05 per cent of the Bessemer steel.

While the corporation last year produced only 40.4 per cent of the total pig iron, it consumed a somewhat larger percentage through purchases. In 1903 the Steel Corporation trimmed its sails closer to the times than some of its competitors, which in a measure accounts for the decrease in its percentage of production in various lines.

OHIO PLURALITY THREE TIMES LARGER THAN EVER

Republicans Gain Three Congressmen—Contest Is Probable in Fifth District.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Almost complete unofficial returns tonight indicate that the Republican plurality in Ohio is between 210,000 and 213,000, or over three times the plurality this state ever gave any national ticket. About a dozen counties have been carried by the Republicans for the first time, which means radical changes in county and other local offices. The aggregate plurality of the 18 counties carried by the Democrats is only 10,738 or less than the Republican plurality in either of a half dozen counties, one-half that of Cuyahoga and much less than one-third that of Hamilton county. The Republicans gained three congressmen by carrying all of the congressional districts except the Fourth in which Harvey C. Garber was re-elected by 1,600, or less than one-third the usual Democratic plurality of that district. The only close contest was in the election of Dawes (Rep.) over Schneider (Dem.) in the Fifteenth congressional district, which gave Roosevelt over 2,000 plurality and Dawes only 200. It is noted that the largest Republican gains come from the mining and laboring districts.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 9.—There is a probability of a contest in the Fifth Ohio congressional district when at 3 o'clock this morning it was thought T. T. Ansberry, Democrat, of Defiance, was the winner by 600. Tonight Ansberry's election is claimed by the Democrats by 68 votes, while the Republicans claim the election of W. W. Campbell by 300.

And This Is the Way Maine Went.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 9.—Practically complete returns tonight give the Republican presidential electors in Maine a plurality of 37,500. The plurality in 1900 was 28,000. In 405 of the 519 cities, towns and plantations President Roosevelt received 64,334 votes and Parker 27,268.

Slump Even in Arkansas.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—Louisiana's plurality for the Democratic ticket is about 35,000. The plurality in this city will only be about 14,000, owing to the independent movement, the ticket being large and complicated and many did not vote the national ticket at all.

DARING HOLDUP AT BUSY CORNER

LONG SESSION WITH POLICE

If the story told by Clark B. Sherman, cashier of the Adams Express Company, at 610 Wood street, is correct, one of the most daring holdups in the history of Pittsburgh took place in the company's office at 6:50 o'clock last evening. Sherman has a gunshot wound through his left arm and about $200 of the company's money is missing. According to his story a desperate battle took place in the office between himself and a man who entered and held him up with a revolver.

Sherman's story is to the effect that about the time mentioned he was sitting in the office writing a letter. There was no other person present. He looked up to find a man standing close to him and holding a revolver at his head. The man seized a tin cash box in which was the money and a number of papers, and started out. Sherman says he attacked the man and that a desperate fight followed. The thief, he says, shot him through the left arm, the bullet entering just below the elbow and passing toward the wrist. Sherman says he fired several times at the thief, but he escaped. Sherman's bullets entering the wall in the rear of the office. The thief, Sherman says, escaped through a rear door and disappeared in Church alley.

The matter was at once reported to the police and several detectives were sent to the express company's office. Sherman was placed under a severe examination as the detectives were not satisfied with his statement. A search of the building revealed the tin box carefully hidden away in the rear of the office. The money was gone, but the papers, which had lain on top of the money, had been carefully replaced.

The detectives also discovered, so they say, that the bullet holes in the wall could not have been made by a person firing from the point where Sherman claimed to have been when he shot at the man. These and numerous other suspicious circumstances caused the detectives to doubt the young man's story and he was taken to headquarters. Here he was placed upon the rack and for six hours piled with questions concerning the alleged holdup, but he steadfastly stuck to his remarkable story and never once faltered or changed his statements, and at 2 o'clock this morning was allowed to go.

Sherman is about 23 years of age and has only been married a few months. He has been employed by the company for a number of years and has always borne a good reputation. He lives at 207 Southern avenue, Mt. Washington, and is well known in that locality. The alleged holdup took place at one of the most prominent corners of the city, the office of the express company being located at Wood street and Liberty avenue. Several persons claim to have seen a man running away from the vicinity of the building immediately after the shooting took place.

The police consider it one of the most remarkable cases on record. If Sherman's story is correct they consider it a daring piece of burglary, and if it is not correct he has proved himself the most baffling person with whom they have ever had to deal.

George Crawford, a night watchman, noticed Sherman in his office shortly before the assault and went in. Sherman told him he meant to go home shortly and Crawford waited for him. Crawford in the meantime went to the rear door, tried and opened it, and then locked it again and began to put out the lights. A few moments later Sherman and he walked out the Wood street door and going as far as Sixth avenue separated. Ten minutes later Sherman says he went back to the office to write a letter and that the assault then took place.

ARE ATTACKING ETSE.

Japanese Are Reported to Have Silenced Forts on Two Other Mountains.

TOKYO, Nov. 9.—It is reported that the Japanese have completely silenced the forts on Rihlung and Sung mountains, and that their main strength is now attacking Etse mountain.

CHEFOO, Nov. 9.—A junk, which left Port Arthur, November 7 has arrived here, bringing the news that the garrison up to that time had repulsed all Japanese attacks. The junk was intecepted by a Japanese torpedo boat, which confiscated all the correspondence on board. Two Chinese who were on the junk were executed by the Japanese.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9.—There is the greatest rejoicing here at the failure of the recent Japanese attacks on Port Arthur. The papers are filled with columns of praise, interspersed with poems eulogizing the gallant defense made by Gen. Stoessel and the heroic garrison. According to information received by the war office 50,000 is a low estimate of the Japanese losses before Port Arthur.

No Doubt Concerning Mississippi.

JACKSON, MISS, Nov. 9.—Returns from yesterday's election are coming in slowly, but the figures, as sent out last night, will not be materially changed. The Democratic ticket will have approximately 50,000 majority in the state, with eight Democratic congressmen returned.

Election in Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 9.—There was a heavy vote polled at the election on this island. Incomplete returns indicate the election of Julio Larrinaga, Unionist candidate for resident commissioner at Washington, by a vote of about two to one. The house of delegates will have a Unionist majority.

KILLED SISTER AND BROTHER

SEVERAL SUDDEN DEATHS

While returning from a visit to the home of their brother-in-law, Daniel Balint of Dockers Hollow, North Braddock, John Sheffhik, aged 28, and married, and his 13-year-old sister, Mary, were struck and instantly killed on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Bessemer station at 9 o'clock last night. Both lived in Braddock. The bodies were brought to Union station and taken to the morgue.

Mrs. Annie Takac, aged 31, a native of Hungary, living at 425 Helen street, McKees Rocks, died at the McKees Rocks hospital yesterday afternoon from burns received in the morning at her home. Mrs. Takac poured part of a can of coal oil on a stove fire, which exploded. The flames enveloped her face and her clothing was instantly ablaze. She rushed into the street, and a man coming up the street with a pail of water threw it over her and extinguished the flames by wrapping his coat about the woman. The flesh on her face, head, arms, breast and waist fell away from the bones when the physicians at the hospital were treating her. She was the wife of John Takac, and leaves two little sons.

Although viewed by over 5,000 persons the body of the woman who committed suicide by jumping off the Sixth street bridge October 31 is still unidentified. Some 200 persons attempted to identify the body yesterday, but were unable to do so. Four women called at the morgue Tuesday night and said the deceased was Mrs. Ella Hunt of McKees Rocks, but it was learned yesterday the woman was not Mrs. Hunt.

John Reim, aged 55, of 138 Charles street, Allegheny, was found dead at his home yesterday. Heart disease caused death.

James Farrel, aged 45, of 63 Eureka street, died while in bed yesterday from heart disease.

The inquest was held yesterday into the deaths of Mrs. Annie Dix and her son, Joseph Dix, who were asphyxiated at their home, 2832 Mary street, South Side, October 28. Investigation revealed the chimney was filled with soot, which prevented proper ventilation for the gas stove.

SOUTH SIDE OFFICERS MAKE GOOD CAPTURE

Two Men Arrested on Suspicion. Were Loaded With Valuable Jewelry.

South Side police think they have in two men locked up in the South Side police station yesterday afternoon, the men who have been committing many burglaries throughout the city for some time. The prisoners were arrested on suspicion by Officers Harry Merit and Charles McAfee.

Merit and McAfee were standing at South First and Carson streets yesterday afternoon when the noticed the men get on a car. Their actions seemed strange and the officers, who were in plain clothes, also boarded the car. Half-way up Brownsville avenue one of the men alighted and was followed by Merit. The other man traveled some distance farther and then alighted, and was followed by McAfee.

Merit's man went to a house and tried to sell some soap by sample. When he returned to the street Merit questioned him and he admitted he had served four years for robbing the home of J. B. Sweitzer, in Beech street, Allegheny. He was placed under arrest, and McAfee also arrested his man. On the way to the patrol box Merit's man gave his name as William Hunter and his address as Almeda street. McAfee's man claimed to be Frank Gardner of 145 McLain street. Hunter pulled out a roll of bills and offered them for his release. On the way to the station Gardner threw a handful of jewelry into the street, but it was recovered. On the men were found two jimmies, a skeleton key and a number of articles of jewelry. Among the jewelry was the following:

One large seal ring, with the initial "L," one wedding ring, with the inscription, "Carrie, 1896, Bert;" one brooch, with the initials "C. C. C.;" one brooch with a heart locket, inscribed, "G. B. L. to C. P. I.;" one chain bracelet, with a heart locket inscribed, "Grandma;" one W. and J. college pin, with the initials, "D. S.," and several other rings, brooches and chains, which has no marks.

Why is cotton mixed with linen in making underwear? Because its cheaper.

Kneipp Linen-Mesh Underwear

LIEUT. DICKSON REFUSED TO SWEAR

Rumor About Stand Taken by Allegheny Officer May Make His Testimony Desirable.

DISPATCH MAKES APOLOGY

Developments in the Allegheny graft proceedings continue to be interesting. Yesterday in quarter sessions court, before Judge J. A. Evans, Sue Williams of 62 West Robinson street was granted an appeal from the decision of Magistrate Samuel Abernathey, who fined her $50 and costs for alleged disorderly conduct. The appeal also asked for a rehearing of the case of Lillian Earl, also of West Robinson street, who was arrested at the same time as Mrs. Williams and fined $25 and costs. The latter owns the house conducted by the Earl woman. The petition presented to the court has transcripts attached taken from the docket of Abernathey, showing that the women were fined for disorderly conduct.

Attorney John Marron, who presented the petition in behalf of Mrs. Williams, said that the two houses were raided last Sunday morning and that the women were given a hearing and fined for disorderly conduct of which they had not been guilty. The raids on the houses were made, it was alleged, on account of Mrs. Williams giving testimony against Allegheny officials who were under charges of grafting, made by the county detective for the district attorney.

The women allege they were guilty of no disorderly conduct, that quiet prevailed at the time of the raids and that the arrests were made for the purpose of intimidating them from producing testimony against the officials under indictment. The appeals will be heard next Saturday.

Interesting Rumor About Lieut. Dickson.

Although no confirmation will be given the report by Attorneys Haymaker or Marron, it is almost certain that Lieut. Robert Dickson of the Third police district, Allegheny, will be summoned to appear as a witness for the commonwealth at the Williams hearing next Saturday. Dickson was in charge of the officers who raided Mrs. Williams' house last Sunday morning and the blotter at central station shows that he made no sworn statement regarding the affair.

It has come out since that Dickson refused to be sworn, or to testify that there had been disorder in the Williams house as is alleged by Roundsman Joseph Dean, whose testimony is on the police docket. Dickson's attitude lends color to the story that the police trumped up the charge against Mrs. Williams after raiding her house in accordance with prearranged plans. It is said that Dickson declared before Magistrate Abernathey that he could not swear there was any riot or disorder when the house was raided, as he heard none.

The commonwealth will put on the stand the men who were visiting at the Williams house at the time the raid was made, and it is expected that without exception they will deny the police docket evidence. It is understood that the prosecuting attorneys will take action against every officer who participated in the raid. There is no ordinance in Allegheny making raids of such resorts permissible, as is the case in Pittsburgh. Charges of unlawfully entering a dwelling and making false arrests will, it is said, be preferred against the arresting officers.

Dispatch Made Fulsome Apology.

Nothing of a serious nature is likely to result from the trouble The Dispatch got into when it published in its Monday morning's issue an alleged interview with Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, who has as his clients the Allegheny officials against whom the graft proceedings are directed, in which the intimation was conveyed that Attorneys Haymaker and Marron were to be charged with the bribery of witness in their graft prosecutions.

The disclaimer of anything intended to reflect on Messrs. Haymaker and Marron, which was made so prominent as printed on the first page of yesterday's issue of The Dispatch, and the leading editorial, which like the first page matter referred to was an apology of every degree, were entirely satisfactory to Messrs. Hay-Haymaker and Marron, and so far as the latter are concerned, the affair is now a closed incedent. Letters from Mr. Marshall to both the other attorneys were printed in The Dispatch, giving assurance that the former had no intention of imputing to the prosecuting attorneys any hint of complicity in the alleged bribery of which Mr. Marshall spoke to a Dispatch reporter on Monday afternoon.

Neither Mr. Marron nor Mr. Haymaker would tell publicly the conditions imposed by them on The Dispatch in the dealings that resulted in the publication of the retraction yesterday, and which prevented legal proceedings for criminal libel.

Haymaker Stood by the Reporter.

It was learned from another source, however, that Mr. Haymaker refused to have anything to do with a settlement until it was understood that the reporter who wrote the story was not to be discharged, which is said to have been one of the first things proposed by Charles A. Rook, the president, editor and manager of The Dispatch, as an adequate atonement for the outraged feelings of Messrs. Haymaker and Marron. There was quite a dispute over this proposition, but Mr. Haymaker has his way despite a fervid desire to get rid of the reporter.

"All I will say," said Mr. Marron last night, "is that we are perfectly satisfied with the termination of this affair. We have been vindicated and it has been shown to the public that we will not permit a lie to hang to our names longer than 24 hours."

SANK IN FATAL COLLAPSE ON SISTER'S WEDDING DAY

While Carriage Waited to Take Her to a Wedding, a Young Woman Fell Unconscious and Expired.

With a carriage awaiting her at the door to take her to Holy Trinity Roman Catholic church, Center avenue, to attend her sister's marriage, Mrs. Katherina Entress Baltensperger, of No. 2446 Bedford avenue, succumbed to an attack of nervous prostration Tuesday morning and died later in the day as her sister, unconscious of her condition, was speeding to St. Louis on her honeymoon.

Mrs. Baltensperger, who was 36 years old, and the widow of Casper Baltensperger, Jr., a former prominent real estate dealer, was the sister of Miss Frances Entress, who was married Tuesday morning to Augustus H. Bregenzer. The Entress family live a few squares away at No. 2832 Bedford avenue and sent a carriage to the home of Mrs. Baltensperger, expecting to meet her at the church. As she had been suffering from nervous collapse for some time, her absence at the church was not commented upon, but after the bridal party returned she was found in a most serious condition, having collapsed just as she was about to dress for the ceremony. A telegraphic message was at once hastened to St. Louis to meet the bride.

Mrs. Baltensperger was born in Manchester, Allegheny, and was the daughter of the late John V. Entress, the organizer of the Entress Brick Company. She is survived by two daughters and one son; her mother, three sisters and four brothers. Funeral services will be held from the home of her mother tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

LARKIN WANTS TO PUSH BOND CASE

Solicitor Rodgers Promises Attorney Guthrie to Renew Suit This Week.

WAGERS ON CONTROLLERSHIP

Controller Larkin and his attorneys have grown tired of waiting for the city administration to renew proceedings in the filtration bond suit, and after more than four weeks of waiting for Mayor Hays and the city solicitor to plead to the controller's answer, the latter's attorney, George W. Guthrie, called upon City Solicitor Rodgers yesterday and asked him when he would be ready to continue the case.

Mr. Guthrie said Rodgers told him the administration would make its plea this week and the questions involved would be brought to speedy issue.

In his reply to the administration's petition for a mandamus to compel him to advertise and sell the bonds, the controller charged corruption and claimed the proposed bond issue was illegal. Against this answer Mayor Hays will plead that he has no knowledge of any corruption, and he will join issue with the controller on the question of law.

While the decision of the Scranton judge, to the effect that all municipal bonds for public improvements must be made payable annually, is regarded among lawyers here as something of a knockout for the administration, still it will ask the Allegheny county court to take another view of this question and to decide other law points in the case.

The controller is anxious to push the case through to a conclusion before his coming campaign for re-election, believing he will win the case and it will help his candidacy.

The controller is very confident he will be re-elected.

"I have the courage, the brains and money back of me to elect me, no matter who runs against me," he said yesterday.

"I have a man," added the controller, "who will wager any amount from $200 to $20,000 that I will be re-elected."

TWO CHURCHES SEND CALLS FOR PASTORS

Shadyside and Bellefield Presbyterian Congregations Decide on New Leaders.

Two of Pittsburgh's most prominent religious organizations voted to call pastors last evening. The Shadyside Presbyterian congregation issued a unanimous call to the Rev. Dr. J. Kinsey Smith of Louisville, Ky., and the Bellefield Presbyterian church issued a call to the Rev. Dr. Daniel Russell of Harlem, N. Y. The Shadyside church fixed the salary at $6,000 a year, with a parsonage, and the Bellefield congregation decided upon $5,500 a year, with six weeks' vacation and no parsonage.

The Shadyside meeting was presided over by the Rev. Dr. David R. Breed as moderator. The committee appointed to select a pastor for the church had visited a number of cities and listened to a number of ministers and finally settled upon Dr. Smith as the man wanted at Shadyside. He is the pastor of the leading Presbyterian church in Louisville. The committee reported to the congregational meeting last evening that it had decided upon Dr. Smith and the report was unanimously adopted. A committee was appointed to sign the call and another to prosecute the call before the Pittsburgh presbytery. It is not known yet whether Dr. Smith will come and his congregation in Louisville declares that it will not permit him to leave if he can possibly be induced to remain.

The parsonage of the Shadyside church is said to be in bad repair and it was the opinion of the congregation that it should be repaired. The trustees announced that they intend spending several thousand dollars to put the building in good repair. It is situated in Amberson avenue.

The Bellefield congregation decided to pay $5,500 a year to its new pastor and allow him to secure his own residence. The Bellefield pulpit has been vacant seven months by the resignation of the Rev. Dr. H. T. McClelland, who resigned to take the position of field secretary of the Board of Missions for Freedmen. The call was moderated by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Cowan.

The Right Material
The Wright Process

are what make right underwear—Wright's Health Underwear. The right material is wool—it is the natural body covering. The Wright process is the manner of weaving it into an outer fabric and an inner fleece composed entirely of tiny interlocking loops. The two are what make different and better. It is a health underwear in more than name. Cotton and linen will not absorb perspiration. Ordinary fleece lined wool feels good when first worn, but "stuffy" later on—the fleece mats in the wash, and excludes air from the pores. Costumes for the New York Horse Show

And the Various Functions of the Occasion.

A Superb Group of Gowns

For One-Quarter and More Below Former Prices.

The Fall and Winter importations of beautiful and artistic costumes assembled here emphasize, in a marked degree, our great aim in gathering gowns that are really exclusive, while representing the most artistic efforts of costumers in this country and abroad.

Our representative visits all the noted foreign fashion resorts before the work of selection begins. Our house has prestige and standing with the great foreign dressmakers which enables us to get co-operation that is impossible to any other concern in Pittsburg.

The collection of costumes exhibited this Autumn has been counted as fine as ever crossed the ocean. These dresses were not made for mere exhibition purposes. In fabrics used, in the trimmings, the designs, the execution of workmanship, everything speaks of the perfectly finished garment

Today we present about one hundred of these costumes, marked one-quarter (some of them more) below former prices. The collection is the handsomest we've ever had. It presents a splendid opportunity for the woman who desires handsome apparel for the New York Horse Show or the local concerts to select the gown she desires, and whatever selection is made today or this week she is absolutely sure it is worth one-third more than the price that need be paid for it. The collection includes evening gowns for different functions—were $125.00 to $500.00, now $100.00 to $350.00.

Women who wish costumes still dressy and artistic, though a trifle less elaborate, and still eminently suitable for society wear, will be interested in the dresses we are showing from $50.00 upward. This applies to the smart and handsome tailor-made gowns for Horse Show wear, made of rich velvets in short coat, three-quarter length and redingote styles.

Our new models of Coats and Wraps are on a par with the importations of costumes. Today we present a most comprehensive collection of women's overgarments—velour and crushed plush jackets and coats in the various lengths from the blouses to the long coats in semi-fitting and loose effects, $25 to $350.00.

Handsome Cloth Coats of fine broadcloths and kerseys, in plain and appliqued effects, $30.00 to $90.00.

Wraps for afternoon wear, showing handsome cloth garments in white and new pastel shades, $50.00 to $150.00.

Wraps for afternoon wear, mostly hand-made laces, exquisite and exclusive garments, at $80.00 to $250.00.

Women's New Suits—With the New Models in Coats, 42 and 50 Inches.

The smartest length is the 42-inch coat. The tendency, as you perhaps know, is veering to the rather long coat, some of them extremes as to length. These long coat suits represent the most recent ideas of American designers, modeled, of course, after the suit that Paquin, of Paris, created, and which has been so universally admired. The skirt is a walking length, and the coat is fly front, fitted back, men's collar and coat sleeve.

These suits are shown in black, brown and blue broadcloth and herringbone cheviot—42-inch cheviot $35.00, 42-inch broadcloth $38.50, 50-inch cheviot $38.50, 50-inch broadcloth $42.50.

All women are not going to adopt these long coat suits on the impulse of the moment, therefore news of some very stylish and some very inexpensive suits having coats of various lengths.

Cheviot Suits having 24-inch coats, made tight-fitting in back, with two-piece half belt of velvet; notch collar and cuffs of velvet to match. Skirts are made with 9 gores, and knee-pleated flares. Our special price..... $25.00

Special lot of Tourists' Suits in tan covert and a variety of Scotch mixtures. Coats the regulation tourist length, body and sleeves lined with satin. Seven-gored skirts with deep kilt. Our special price..... $25.00

Suits with collarless coats, the coat a new Norfolk model, leg-o'-mutton sleeves, long shoulder effect, lined with taffeta. Seven-gored skirt, deep knee box pleat. These suits are shown in black and brown cheviot, and our popular price is..... $30.00

Thursday, November 10, 1904.

Maryland is a distinct gain for the Republican party. Though it gave a plurality for McKinley in 1896 on the money issue, it was not classed as a Republican state. Senator Gorman and other Democratic leaders, if not hostile to Bryan, were, at the least, lukewarm in his support. Four years ago the reaction brought Gorman again to the top. This year Gorman was emphatically the Democratic leader and he raised the race issue to make assurance doubly sure. He has been decisively beaten. Maryland is making great commercial and industrial progress and is coming to perceive the declined advantages of Republican policies.

Allegheny county made the most of its opportunity and gave a Republican majority that fully establishes its title as the state of Allegheny. Few states gave larger majorities for the candidates of their choice than the county of Allegheny. Some states polled smaller total votes. That the majorities of this county are not the result of blind prejudice is fully attested by analysis of the vote of last Tuesday and of preceding elections. The voters here are independent and intelligent and they can vote mixed tickets as easily as straight. They are Republicans because they believe in the efficacy of Republican policies and the righteousness of Republican principles.

Now that the campaign is over the Democrats must regret some of the expenditures they made. They did not undertake to secure material from agents in the Philippine islands, as the anti-imperialists did four years ago, but they sent an agent to Panama to learn all about President Roosevelt's "encouragement" of the revolution that made the canal building possible. Some days ago this agent had found valuable material, and he was assisted in securing its verification so that he might publish the facts just before the election. A sensation was promised, but, like many other of the Taggart predictions, it has disappeared. Mere considerations of patriotism did not hamper the Democratic campaign.

The congratulations of the pope to President Roosevelt have special significance, as they speak the sentiment of many Catholics who favored the election of the Republican candidate. Little was said about the matter during the campaign, but it is known that many prominent in church matters favored the administration on account of its policy in the Philippines. The course followed by Gov. Taft was not partiality to the Catholics, but they had reason to recognize its fairness. One of the results has been increasing cordiality between the government at Washington and the church authorities at Rome. Added to this incident was the personal enthusiasm for Mr. Roosevelt felt by many admirers of his virile character, and the effect was a cleavage in the vote of a religious body that has been regarded as generally Democratic.

The election Tuesday was notable for the number of voters who refused to cast the straight ticket. In New York the tremendous strength of President Roosevelt dragged in Candidate Higgins, in spite of the opposition made to his election as governor, but there was a wide difference in their pluralities. Rhode Island, which gave Roosevelt 16,000 plurality, elected the Republican candidate for governor by only a little over 500 plurality. Massachusetts selected Roosevelt electors by over 70,000 and chose the Democratic candidate for governor by over 30,000. It was expected that there would be a fight over the ticket in Wisconsin, but a Republican candidate won and the national ticket was not imperiled. Next to the result in Massachusetts, the greatest surprises were afforded in Minnesota and Missouri. The last named state was thought to be Democratic, but it chose Roosevelt electors, and Folk, the Democratic candidate, to be governor, while the 100,000 plurality for Roosevelt in Minnesota did not save the Republican nominee for governor, who was defeated by John A. Johnson, the Democrat, who was particularly popular.

Judge Parker and Mr. Bryan both made public their comments upon election results. Judge Parker's statement is dignified in tone but he persists in his theory that the trusts controlled the election, although he rather characteristically presents no facts to support the theory. It would be at least an interesting exercise in dialectics if he would explain how Massachusetts elected a tariff revision Democratic candidate for governor if the trusts ran the election up there, and how did the slump in Missouri occur, a state universally conceded to the Democrats and upon whose electoral vote no Republican party manager would have been willing to stake a dollar. Judge Parker says that he will never be a candidate again, but he is going to work for his party's success, and he proposes as a great moral issue the adoption of means to prevent trusts and corporations from contributing money to control elections. Mr. Bryan's interpretation of results is that the Democratic party has nothing to gain by conservatism, but what it needs to do is to become more radical, steadfastly refusing to "attempt any conciliation of the industrial and financial despots who are gradually getting control of all the avenues of wealth." Relentless war upon industry and capital appears to be Mr. Bryan's program. The way money is stacking up in the savings banks is an evil which he is bent upon ending. He selects effective measures, but the people won't give him a chance.

The People's Victory.

Although the Republican party has won the greatest electoral majority since 1872, there is nothing in it to encourage party presumption, for it is manifest that the result is the people's victory. The calculations of the politicians on both sides have been confounded. No well informed politician doubted the election of Roosevelt; no one dreamed that back of the quiet of the campaign this avalanche of popular sentiment was impending.

There is just one explanation of it, namely, that the people looked upon Roosevelt as their representative, and they were determined to uphold him against the machinations of the professional politicians. It is well known that Roosevelt is not liked by the professional politicians in his own party, and that had there been a chance for them to organize a successful combination upon some other candidate it would have been done. At the very time the Republican national convention was getting ready to nominate him, the hotel lobbies at Chicago resounded with personal denunciations of him, and the very day upon which he was unanimously nominated disgruntled politicians were saying that he would be ditched, and they did not say so in whispers, either. The convention acted under pressure of popular sentiment. The situation was described at the time with substantial truth by the saying that nobody wanted him and nobody dared to oppose him.

The Democratic campaign was popularly regarded as not being founded upon principle, but upon cunning, and as being representative of the plans of a group of professional politicians on the Democratic side to utilize personal opposition to Roosevelt to get themselves into the control of the government. Hence the Democratic campaign soon ceased to be a discussion of issues of public policy and became a mere personal assault upon Roosevelt, culminating in charges that he had entered into a conspiracy with the trusts, who would thus purchase the presidency through his agency. The people instinctively comprehended the situation, and hence their quiet and unresponsive attitude under campaign excitements. The people were simply biding their time. No other explanation will suffice. The Parker managers complain of the Bryanite defection, but how can that account for the slump in New York city and in a multitude of localities where Bryan has never had any considerable strength? Results so vast and sweeping as are shown in the election returns are beyond the power of any faction. Only the American people, stirred to the depths by a mighty impulse, can do such things.

President Roosevelt is elected not merely as a party nominee, but as the representative of the American people. He has a support far greater than the strength of his party and his true representative value is greater than that of his party in congress. This may seem to be a startling proposition, but it is well founded, and the more it is examined the more it will be confirmed. And yet under the unconstitutional procedure which has gradually become established in congress this representative of the people as a whole has no regular means of placing a single measure upon the legislative calendars or of bringing it to vote. Among the bogus issues of the campaign executive usurpation cut a large figure. The truth of the case is that constitutional government suffers from congressional usurpation, particularly the outrageous pretensions of the senate to hold up any legislation and prevent it from coming to a vote when it is objectionable to interests having senatorial representation. It is a striking evidence of how far the Democratic party has departed from Democratic principles that the senatorial hold-up was actually commended in the St. Louis platform.

President Roosevelt has already had much to endure from congressional usurpation in his efforts to carry out the will of the people. The long senatorial hold-up of the Cuban reciprocity treaty is a well-known instance. Now that he is no longer an ad interim president, but an elected president, supported by a tremendous mandate from the people, he is hardly likely to submit quietly to senatorial usurpation. He has declared that he will not accept another nomination, and no one can doubt that he intends to keep his word. Whatever he wants to do in the presidential office he must do in the next four years. It is safe to predict that there will be lively times in national politics in those four years and that the events will be memorable in our constitutional history.

Massachusetts Independence.

There were contests over local tickets in many states Tuesday that seemed to threaten the electoral vote, but no one seriously expected that Massachusetts would elect a Democratic governor while indorsing Roosevelt. In fact, the influences that brought about his nomination did not anticipate this result, for they named him as they have selected many standard-bearers—because he was anxious for the honor—and it was believed that he could afford to contribute liberally and maintain the party organization in defeat. But he surprised them all by starting in as if he intended to win and he conducted his campaign in an earnest and very methodical manner. As a rule he avoided clap-trap and presented solid arguments which voters could understand, so the triumph was not so much personal as it was the expression of an idea.

Admitting that Gov. Bates was associated with doubtful company and had also offended the labor element, the determining issue was not the unpopularity of one candidate or the popularity of the other. Gov. Bates had been before the people and had received their indorsement. But the year before he had been pitted against a corporation man and one of the "blue bloods" who could arouse no enthusiasm among Democrats. This time the governor was opposed to a candidate who was not only a typical representative of the successful workingman, but also the exponent of timely issues. From the outset Mr. Douglass has urged the issue of tariff revision, a subject which he has discussed with force and intelligence. Stress was laid upon the subject of Canadian reciprocity, and in pressing this issue Mr. Douglass was no doubt helped by the agitation of Mr. Foss, who was running for congress.

Massachusetts has not elected a Democrat for governor since William E. Russell went in for the third time in 1892. But those three years of Democratic rule were due to the personality of the candidate rather than any principles he represented. Massachusetts voters rather pride themselves on their independence, and it is the fact that they stand ready to break the bounds of party allegiance occasionally which precipitates an occasional "house-cleaning" in politics. But even the fear of this does not seem to remove the occasions for reaction, for the dominant party has been severely disciplined on several occasions. But a Democratic governor in the Bay State can be checked by the council, which can exercise its power and refuse to confirm his appointments if it does not approve of them.

Results in Pennsylvania.

Aside from the tremendous majority given by the state of Pennsylvania at large for the national Republican ticket, there are particular results that are most gratifying. The Democratic organization devoted its efforts especially to congressional, senatorial, legislative and judicial districts. It advertised on several occasions the purpose to add four congressional districts to the three represented by Democrats in the present congress and that it would elect seven of its thirteen judicial candidates. In these expectations the Democrats failed signally. They lost at every point. They have probably lost two of the three congressional districts they now hold and have elected but four of the thirteen judges.

First in the Democratic list of hopes was the Twentieth congressional district—York and Adams counties—where Daniel Lafean was the Republican candidate for re-election. Two years ago Mr. Lafean carried that district by 591, the first time in its history. He has carried it again by a plurality probably three times as great as that given him two years ago. The bitterest fight was waged in the Tenth district—Lackawanna county—where George Howell, Democrat, made his canvass on the plea that he had been unjustly unseated from the Fifty-eighth congress. Thomas H. Dale has been elected by a plurality estimated to be close to 2,000. Another bitter contest was waged in the Nineteenth district—Cambria, Bedford and Blair counties—where the Democratic nomination was given to Joseph E. Thropp of Bedford, former Republican congressman from the district. The Republican nominee, John M. Reynolds, formerly a Gold Democrat, is elected by a plurality not open to question. Upon these three districts the Democrats counted primarily for their gains.

Considerable effort was expended on the Twenty-third district to defeat Allen F. Cooper, but it was a waste of Democratic energy. Mr. Cooper is re-elected by an increased plurality. His public service secured the deserved recognition of a larger vote than two years ago in each of the three counties, Fayette, Somerset and Greene. The same can be said of the Eleventh district—Luzerne county—where Henry W. Palmer's plurality of over 2,000 in 1902 has been increased to more than 3,000; of the Twelfth district—Schuylkill county—where George R. Patterson is re-elected by 3,000 instead of 1,700, and of the Fifteenth district—Tioga, Potter, Lycoming and Clinton counties—where a plurality of 2,500 for Elias Deemer two years ago has been swelled to more than 3,000 this year.

At this writing the Democrats have certainly carried but one congressional district in the state, the Thirteenth—Berks and Lehigh counties—and in that one their vote has been greatly reduced. Two are in doubt, the Sixteenth, now represented by Charles H. Dickerman, Democrat, and the Twenty-sixth, represented by John R. Shull, Democrat. In this latter district Davis R. Brodhead, the Democratic candidate, was handicapped by the independent candidacy of Mr. Shull.

Contests of some vigor were made in the Thirty-first, Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth senatorial districts, but the Republican candidates are elected by handsome majorities. A particularly hard fight was made against Jacob C. Stineman of Cambria in the Thirty-fifth district, comprising two counties of the Nineteenth congressional district. Mr. Stineman is elected by an increased plurality for his third term over Thomas H. Greevy of Blair. He was assisted to this result by the Democratic city committee of Altoona, which publicly denounced Greevy as a traitor to Democratic candidates in previous campaigns, ranging from congress down to the office of ward constable. Pennsylvania Republicans have reason to congratulate themselves on the results attained, which are a complete indorsement of their policies, state and national.

Greater Pittsburgh will be supported by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, which will join hands for the chamber of commerce plan.

Europe refers to President Roosevelt's re-election as a triumph for peace. Apparently they are not alarmed by the "big stick" over there.

The Democrat who refers to 1908 is a living illustration of the adage that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

P. Gray Meek, who promised a Democratic gain of four congressmen from Pennsylvania, has not been heard from.

"Jim" Kerr has not returned from London to urge his title to the Democratic leadership in this state.

James Knox Polk Hall is still attending to his private business up in the woods of Elk county.

Stoessel is putting up a better defense than the Democracy, but his hour of defeat draws near.

Again the deadly oil can and the live fire have got in their work. Will people never learn?

Stock markets were quick to respond to the popular verdict for prosperity.

Here comes the business boom in full force. No excuse to hesitate longer.

It was so much better than anyone really expected.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Apparently resorts to the "code" are not entirely a thing of the past, in New York at least, for as a result of a somewhat ludicrous attempt to settle certain personal differences with pistols at the regulation range that honor requires in these matters, 77-year-old Frank Cramer must stand examination on a charge of felonious assault on Friday next. Cramer's opponent, Joseph Provenzan, who has himself reached the reasonable age of 62, is laid up with a wound on the scalp. Cramer is a brother-in-law of Provenzan. About a week ago they became engaged in a quarrel over some personal matter. Arguments proving of no avail, Cramer, according to the police, provided himself with a pair of ancient dueling pistols and laid in wait for Provenzan. They met last evening near Provenzan's gate, and Cramer immediately demanded satisfaction on the field of honor. Provenzan was willing, and immediately the distance was measured off without the preliminary formalities of arranging for seconds. But then, this is a business-like age and it is not written that East One Hundred and Eighth street was shocked by this summary mode of procedure. At the word both fired, and through the excess of desire for satisfaction or a better nerve, Cramer's bullet struck Provenzan in the head, inflicting what was evident at once to be but a slight scalp wound. But honor was still far from being satisfied, and as there was no more ammunition for the old single shot dueling weapons, the two men went at each other with the butts of their pistols. They kept at it till Provenzan fainted. By this time the police had got wind of the affair, and Provenzan was removed to the Harlem hospital, and later taken to his home. His injuries are not serious. Cramer was put under arrest, and today was held in $1,000 bail in the Harlem police court for examination on Friday.

Roosevelt Also Sweeps the Sea.

An election was held on the White Star line steamship Oceanic, as she was nearing port, and today on her arrival the passengers found their election had been like the one that swept the country for Roosevelt. The election on board was held in the smoking room, and an appeal was made for all citizens of this country to take part. Capt. A. W. Masters of Chicago was in charge of the poll, assisted by Capt. R. M. Dutton of the United States marine corps. The vote was: Roosevelt 141, Parker 18. Among the prominent arrivals on the Oceanic was Sir Ernest Cassel, who was met by Jacob H. Schiff, whose guest he will be; 18 members of Sir Charles Wyndham's company, among whom were Alfred Bishop, Cecil Breton, Charles Quartermain and Miss Emily Vining. Wilford Houldsworth, who brings over a string of hunters to be exhibited at the horse show, and F. Vivian Gooch, the authority on saddle horses, also arrived.

Mr. Bryce Enjoys Election Day.

James Bryce, member of parliament, before leaving for London today, made a short address before the faculty and student body of the College of the City of New York, in which he highly praised the college and especially the principle under which it was founded. He also lightly touched on the recent election. He said he had been around the city yesterday and had watched with great interest the election throughout the East Side. "It appeared to me," he said, "the foreigners in this city seemed to vote outside of party lines and were able even after a short time in this country to have such a knowledge of parties and candidates that they could form their own opinions and preferences. I think no other city in the world can say this of a foreign population." Continuing, Mr. Bryce said he knew of no place in the world where a municipality offered its young men the free advantages of a collegiate education, and he would take back to London very pleasant memories of this country.

Woodruff's Vest in Climax.

Judge Parker mourns his loss today, but that loss is as nothing compared to the one Timothy L. Woodruff would have suffered last evening had it not been for the valor of one of his able secretaries. Mr. Woodruff almost lost his vest. The loss of a few score rockbound strongholds may be bitter to the sad-eyed Democrats, but it is a small matter when it is compared with the loss of the vest that has made the former lieutenant governor famous. It was at Republican headquarters in Brooklyn. He felt that he must cheer louder than he had ever cheered in his life. First he cheered with his coat on, but finding this more or less of an effort, he pulled off the coat. Then he endeavored to let himself out for a good, old-fashioned Republican roar, but discovered to his dismay there were limitations to the expansion of his diaphragm. He glanced furtively about. There seemed to be no help for it, and while the throng in the rooms held their breath in amazement, the former lieutenat governor yanked open that far famed, florid chest covering, and cast it from him. In a moment the crowd was fighting for pieces of the vest for souvenirs, but faithful George Cohen sprang forward and rescued it with only one gold button missing.

Children Saved by Fire Drill.

Within two minutes the 2,500 children, ranging in age from 5 to 14 years, were discharged from public school No. 17, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, just before the close of the morning session today on the sounding of the fire bell, which only a few of the 50 teachers knew indicated a blaze. The marching ranks, marshalled by the teachers, were at Ninth avenue when the engines from Forty-eighth street, summoned by a still alarm given by a little girl who was a former member of the school, came dashing into the block. Every person in the building, which quickly filled with smoke, got out safely. Battalion Chief Devanney said: "It was the most remarkable exhibition of coolness I ever witnessed." The fire, an incipient blaze, was confined to the teachers' dressing and storerooms, which was out in a few minutes. The damage was trifling and the teachers themselves are the chief sufferers, as they lost their hats and wraps. There was a wild panic among the parents and families in the neighborhood when the news that the school was on fire spread, and anxious mothers, elder brothers and sisters rushed into the streets crying frantically for their little ones. It was some time before they could be assured that all were safe.

Nips of New York News.

After the bets were paid in the financial district today it looked as though the Republicans had corralled all the prosperity we have heard about during the campaign.

Elias Owens, the missing lad whose disappearance was laid to the "Black Hand" has returned, and as usual, "his mind is a blank."

The ferryboat Texas has been libeled by the United States district attorney for carrying gasoline contained in an automobile. Another blow at the iron horse.

Alderman Keegan was chloroformed last night and his house robbed of $1,000 worth of silver. Aldermen always are rich pickings.

More than 6,000 immigrants were handled at Ellis Island today. One day too late to have their votes counted.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

If a Pittsburgh newsie discovered the tin horn as an implement of torture on election nights, and others, who introduced the cow bell as a side partner of the horn?

Although the cow bell has long been used as a noise-producer by serenading parties, at circular fox hunts and on some other special occasions, it is only within a few years that it has become a common nuisance equal if not greater than the tin horn.

On Tuesday night there was a horn and bell stand near, if not in the very store, where the newsie got his first bunch of horns, away back in '80. Here were stacks of fairly good cow bells, but evidently made to be dragged along the street by a string with a boy attached, instead of being worn on the neck of a cow for the purpose of revealing her whereabouts to the small boy whose duty it was not only to go and look for the cows, but to find them and bring them home.

There were a great many cow bells in the country then, for there were a great many cows, all running on the commons. In those times only cultivated fields were fenced, leaving the woodland open as common grazing ground for stock of all kinds.

Owing to the many hills and hollows it would have been most difficult to locate a particular cow unless she were belled.

* * * * *

What do you say to making a search for these horn and bell fiends?

And when found what say you should be done to them? Monument them with stone or rope? Pistoling would be too quick. How would a deep, dark dungeon do, in which the sound of multitudinous horns and cow bells never cease, not even for a little minute or two?

Anyhow, don't you think these bright chaps should be ferreted out? There is evidently something in them—something out of the ordinary, and it might be something worth while.

It is the boy who does things that is worth while, even if his doings are not along the best lines. If he does things he may be taught to do right things, which counts for the weal of society.

The boy who has it in him to do things will do 'em as surely as he lives, and it is entirely with his educators whether he does right things or wrong.

Every practical business man is on the lookout for boys who do things, either wrong things or right, if only he is not vicious and ill-mannered, for a boy of good disposition and good manners can readily be molded into a gentleman.

The boy who resorted to a tin horn with which to make a noise when his throat had played out, was resourceful, to say the least, and resourceful men are ever in demand.

* * * * *

This is a great country, anyway, don't you think?

For a week past it was in a political turmoil that was calculated to make the coolest heads feel a bit dizzy, and even with the dawn of Tuesday morning there was no certainty as to which way the cat would jump.

All day Tuesday the ballots fell thickly and as softly as snow flakes, and as night closed upon the scene there came a rushing, roaring torrent of noise like unto a blizzard, which raged until the midnight hour when it subsided as rapidly as it had risen, so that when the god of day peeped over the rim of the earth he found all serene and as quiet as if nothing unusual had happened.

Nor did yesterday differ greatly from other Wednesdays, at least not as far as sober, industrious people were concerned, for these were found employed as usual, and not in the least disturbed by the result of the election.

A great country, surely, for the people can arise in all their might, engage in a fierce battle of ballots for a day and then go on as serenely as if nothing unusual had occurred, not even if one great party had been removed from power and another enthroned.

Do you ever reflect on the greatness of your country and on the many varieties of great features it presents to the world?

* * * * *

And where were the women while the horns were a-tootin' and the bells a-ringin'?

They were right there alongside of the men and boys, just where you will always find them.

While they were not of the hub-bub a part they were in it, and are none the less good and wholesome women today.

Woman was designed and made to be a partner of man, which means that she is to share his life, be it ever so trying or ever so joyous. Hence we find her wherever man is, and find her sharing his hardships and his pleasures with cheerfulness and good spirit.

This is the true woman, she who has not been spoiled in her raising by being made to believe that she is a special creation made to be adored and petted and toyed with as though she were a dainty doll.

It is not to be denied that woman is a special creation, but it may be denied, and should be, that she was intended to take man's place in the economy of life. Her place is beside man, not in his shoes.

The tendency of modern education is to take woman from the home and place her in the office, in the shop and in the seats of men in the busy marts of trade and industry.

Nor is it denied that she fills these positions quite well, but she does it at the expense of the home and by driving men into less useful and less profitable positions, thereby lessening their ability to maintain wives and families.

But, thank heaven! the good woman has not ceased to be, nor will her tribe ever become extinct.

* * * * *

Dear Quiet Observer:—I was very much surprised to see my letter in print and regret you did not respect my wishes in regard to its publication.

However, I trust you will now allow me a little space in your column.

Hard as it may be for a man to believe, I am thoroughly contented to remain in single blessedness, not that I decry marriage, for I regard it as a sacrament, and honor most highly those who pledge themselves to each other for better or worse and remain true to their vows.

My place in the world's work is just as important as that of the woman who is shielded by her husband and can devote her time to her home and her children.

Why should I not be contented?

Has not my Heavenly Father given me my place here, and so long as I try to do my duty will He not bless me; and what greater peace and contentment can there be than the knowledge that we have His approval?

Believe me, there are plenty of old maids, or bachelor maids, if you prefer the latter term, who take a brighter view of life than you seem to think we do, and I trust it is only seeming for I do not want to believe that you really have such a poor opinion of us.

Perhaps you wished to draw forth a discussion of this old and ever new subject, and now that I have made my defense I will leave the field for others. MISS N. H.

Until Safe and Sane.

The Morgantown Chronicle throws a rock at the Grant county court for passing an order to prohibit automobiles from using the public roads of that county. The "whizz wagon" is an intolerable nuisance wherever it has become very common and is not only a serious danger to life and limb but has a strong tendency to prevent people from using common vehicles on their own highway. Recently a Long Island judge compelled an automobile to slow up by making ready to fire a stone at the driver. Until the insolence and the criminal recklessness of automobile drivers can be effectually curbed we shall stand up for the Grant county court.—Preston County (W. Va.) Journal.

An Unscrupulous Politician.

Boston Journal (Rep.): Halted by the direct challenge of the president and the declaration that his accusations were unqualifiedly and atrociously false, what justification had Mr. Parker to offer? Not a scrap of evidence of any sort whatever. This leaves Mr. Parker a confessed defamer, an unscrupulous politician, who has not hesitated to charge the president of the United States with infamy in the hope of getting votes for himself.

Explaining Defeat

Views of the Vanquished.

Judge Parker's Excuse.

Judge Parker's statement, according to the New York American: "I know that I am very badly beaten. I knew it before 6 o'clock tonight. My judgment has been for several days that we would be defeated. I received word before 6 o'clock that the cause was lost. I regret our failure more for the sake of the party than for myself. It demonstrates that you cannot beat the trusts. You cannot beat the Republican party by making war upon the trusts. The trust money bought the floating vote and caused the result. If this country shall be saved we must dispose of the floaters. This big army of irresponsible floaters is a continual menace to the government. I am not exercised as to my future plans. I regret our defeat simply as a party issue."

Causes Lie Near the Surface.

New York Herald: We may expect no end of expert analysis and theories to explain the result. It was, however, due to causes that lie near the surface and which have been fully discussed in our columns—a lingering distrust of certain elements in the Democratic party, the failure of its leaders to unite in forcing an issue on vital questions and, above all, to the presence of the invincible General Prosperity fighting on the Republican side.

A Personal Victory.

New York Times: Prosperity, a deep and widespread desire for its continuance, and a feeling perhaps not less widespread that the Democratic party is not yet "fit to govern," are reasons which sufficiently explain the very remarkable results of the election held yesterday in this country. In addition to the solid Republican vote Mr. Roosevelt has received throughout the entire north an immense Democratic vote, ranging from a few thousands in a state like Massachusetts to more than 100,000 in the state of New York. Judge Parker has received with few exceptions the vote of the Independents, the class formerly described by the term "Mugwump"; he has received, we judge, the greater part of the sound money Democratic vote, together with the vote of those unswerving, old-fashioned Democrats, the bone and sinew of the party, who never vote anything but the Democratic ticket. The result is a victory that is not so much Republican as it is personal to Mr. Roosevelt, a victory more sweeping and remarkable even than that of Mr. McKinley in 1896, and comparable rather to that of Grant over Greeley in 1872.

Handicapped by Taggart.

New York World: Whatever chance there may have been for the Democrats was thrown away at St. Louis. A party that has been eight-tenths wrong for eight years cannot regain public confidence at once by being eight-tenths right—particularly when on the vital question of honest money it was set right only under compulsion by its nominee. The extreme and unnecessary statement in the platform—"Protection is robbery"—branding as criminal a policy as old as our government, hurt the Democratic candidate in the chief doubtful states, all of which are heavily interested in manufactures. Judge Parker was seriously handicapped, too, by the national committee's choice of a chairman. * * * Undoubtedly, too, the Democratic candidate suffered from the character and reputation of some of his most conspicuous supporters in this state. The campaign was mismanaged at the start. Judge Parker made a mistake in remaining on the bench so long, leaving a clear field to his opponents, instead of entering at once upon that "wide-awake campaign" which the World called for.

The Fight Just Begun.

Philadelphia Ledger: There could have been few persons in the country, even among the most sanguine Democrats, who regarded Judge Parker's nomination in July as more than a first step toward a hopeful reorganization of the Democratic party as a conservative force. His own deliberation in entering upon the campaign left this impression undisturbed. When he did begin his series of important speeches, which presented the political issues between the candidates and the parties they represented with a clearness and force that arrested general attention, he turned the previous indifference to avoid speculation as to what might have been the result had the campaign been started earlier and prosecuted with like force. It is very doubtful, however, if the result would have been different. Well-developed political tendencies are not easily turned aside, and the present policies of the party in power have not yet reached the point at which the country is ready to be persuaded of the danger.

The People Still Deluded.

Philadelphia Record: The early returns of the voting yesterday quickly dissipated any hope that sanguine Democrats had undoubtedly entertained of a possible victory for Parker and Davis. The glamor of incipient imperialism and the delusive belief that national prosperity is a child of tax rates, rather than of virgin resources and efficient labor, yet hold sway in the popular mind. It is the people's decree that we shall have four more years of Roosevelt. The Democrats of the country accept the will of the majority with absolute resignation and deference. They will brace themselves to the responsibility therefor, but confident for that reason they can better bear with equanimity whatever befalls.

Acquiesces in Election of Higgins.

New York Sun: Frank Wayland Higgins is elected governor of the state of New York. We acquiesce in this manifestation of the public will and we recognize the triumph of graft. At the same time it is proper to recall Mr. Higgins' professions of aloofness from Odell and Odellism. To those professions we now look for the only colorable justification that can attach to his election. He has been swept into office by the overwhelming drift to the national ticket, just as Odell himself might have been had he taken the nomination, as, at one time, he intended to do. It is a great and a good thing to have the Republican party continued in power, and we shall not allow that sentiment to be diminished by any reflections upon its attendant disadvantages, which after all are local in their nature. Neither will we permit it to be lessened by the consciousness of the extent to which the Bryanite vote in this city and state went over to the Roosevelt ticket.

Decent and Permanent Burial Demanded.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The Democratic party stands for sound theories of government, tested and approved by experience. Let it maintain them firmly and boldly, resisting everything tending to subvert them, but without acrimony and without considering it needful to oppose every measure the other side may champion, merely for the sake of opposition. In other words, as far as possible, adopt business methods in legislation. There are some issues to which the Democratic party should give decent and permanent burial. The money question is dead beyond revival. Cover it up and turn to live questions. There has never been a moment's question that the American people as a whole meant to hold onto the Philippines. No Anglo-Saxon race, nor any other that we know of, has ever relinquished territory that cost it blood and treasure.

START IS MADE ON APPROPR'ATIONS

Sub-Committee Appointed to Make Expenditures Fit 15-Mill Tax Levy.

MEMBERS ARE NEW TO TASK

The sub-committee to prepare the appropriations of the city government for 1905 was appointed yesterday afternoon by the finance committee of councils, every member of the sub-committee being an adherent of the administration. The committee consists of P. J. Barry and C. J. Gallagher of select council; C. W. Helmold, Joseph Zeuger and John Maslowsi of common council.

The appointment of the sub-committee was unexpected and was sprung at the regular monthly meeting of the finance committee. The action was a surprise in view of the fact the appropriation ordinances and the estimates of the departments have not been presented to councils yet. It is not known when these ordinances will be presented, but it is the opinion of councilmen that the sub-committee will not wait on these measures, but will go to work at once and prepare appropriation bills that will be approved by the administration, and when their work is completed it will be promptly indorsed by the general finance committee and sent to councils.

Although the new charter provides that all committees and sub-committees shall meet publicly, it is believed the present sub-committee selected by the administration will follow the example of the Orphans' sub-committee last January and hold secret meetings outside of the City hall.

Administration to Fix Expenses.

With one exception the members of the sub-committee are entirely inexperienced in the work of preparing the annual appropriations, and this is taken as evidence that the appropriations which will be adopted will be entirely satisfactory to the administration. The sub-committee will probably be ready to report early in January, when a lively battle is expected in councils. The finance committee will fix the tax levy for 1905 to meet the appropriations made by the sub-committee. According to the best posted members of the finance committee the tax levy next year will be 15 mills.

"There is no doubt that the levy will be 15 mills," said C. W. Helmold, a member of the finance committee and also of the sub-committee. "We can't get around it. We will probably have a large deficit from this year to pay off, and there will be an increase in expenditures next year. A high school site will have to be bought and the prospect is that the board of education will ask for an increase in the salaries of teachers."

The finance committee meeting was not expected to develop anything of importance yesterday, and the plans for the appointment of the sub-committee took the members of the general committees by surprise. C. W. Helmold, who made the motion that a sub-committee of five on appropriations be appointed, said he knew nothing of the matter until he came into City hall and was asked to make the motion.

Bole Was Given Names.

Chairman D. J. Bole was also uninformed until he arrived at the city hall, and he was presented with a slip of paper containing the names of the men who were to be appointed on the sub-committee.

The ordinance creating the bureau of combustibles for the regulation of the storage, manufacture, transportation and sale of explosives, turned up in the finance committee yesterday, although the ordinance properly belongs to the public safety committee. The ordinance provides that the bureau shall consist of the mayor, director of public safety, chief of police and chief engineer of the bureau of fire. County Fire Marshal W. D. McGill and representatives of the board of fire underwriters asked that action on the ordinance be postponed until a better ordinance could be prepared.

Mr. McGill said the ordinance in committee was "very crude," and that he was preparing a bill which would be more acceptable to the fire insurance men and one that would better fit the needs of the city.

"The ordinance in the committees may be all right for a village, but not for a city like Pittsburgh," said Mr. McGill.

He said that Director Moore had agreed with him. The bill was, therefore, referred to a sub-committee consisting of Helmold, Hermes and Taylor.

Only Local Printers Eligible.

An ordinance licensing junk dealers was referred to a sub-committee of McNally, Hughes and Walls.

The committee approved the bills providing the letting of contracts for city printing to only those firms having shops in the city. The bill granting the consent of councils to the annexation of Sterrett township to the city was approved; also an ordinance authorizing the sale at public auction of 14 lots owned by the city.

The ordinance authorizing the employment of an additional assistant city solicitor was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion as to its legality.

SCAFFOLD COLLAPSED AND THREE MEN ARE INJURED

They Were at Work 40 Feet Above the Ground When Supports Gave Way, at Monongahela Furnaces.

Three men were seriously hurt yesterday afternoon at the Monongahela blast furnaces, McKeesport, by the breaking of a scaffold. They fell 40 feet to the ground. The injured are:

JAMES M'CAFFREY, aged 35, of Wyoming street, Mt. Washington, back probably broken, head and face cut, condition serious.

EDWARD HODGSON, aged 25, of 419 Housemman alley, McKeesport; shoulder dislocated, cheek cut and body badly bruised.

CHARLES HOUSEMAN, aged 20, 2207 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, thought to be internally injured, scalp wound and left ankle sprained.

The men were taken to the McKeesport hospital. The accident occurred at 3.30 o'clock as the men were completing a job on a battery of boilers which are being installed for the new tube plant. The wooden supports of the scaffold collapsed and the men were thrown backward. Timbers between them and the ground broke their fall. McCaffrey was rendered unconscious.

The greater part of the program will be given in the Gaelic tongue. At a meeting of the O'Growney society last night it was decided to hold the entertainment, which will be the first observance in this city for years.

NEW HIGH RECORD HAS BEEN MADE

Republican Plurality the Greatest in the History of Allegheny County.

THE VOTE FOR CONGRESSMEN

Allegheny county has made a wonderful showing in this election. The plurality for Roosevelt will go over 70,000. The majorities for all of the Republican candidates will be very large, notwithstanding the fact that at least 17,000 votes were lost owing to many electors being unable to correctly mark their ballots.

The returns of the congressional vote cast in the four congressional districts embraced in Allegheny have not been compiled. The totals will not be known until the returning board has completed its work, and that will probably not be until the end of next week. The totals so far as it was possible to compute them at the court house yesterday are as follows:

Plurality for Graham.

In the Twenty-ninth district unofficial returns were listed from 108 districts, while no figures whatever were obtained from 47 districts. The total of the vote in the 108 districts is:

W. N. Graham, R. 13,528
W. H. S. Thompson, D. 2,504

In the Thirtieth district unofficial returns from 77 districts, with no figures whatever from 57 districts, show the following result:

John Dalzell, R. 11,443
M. L. Thompson, D. 2,071

In the Thirty-first district the returns from 93 precincts, with no figures whatever from 48 precincts, show the following result:

James Francis Burke, R. 12,542
Dr. James McGrath, D. 3,024

In the Thirty-second district, which with the exception of the Twenty-second and South Side wards of Pittsburgh is largely a country district, incomplete returns were had from 96 of the precincts, and nothing whatever from 97 precincts, the result as far as obtained being as follows:

Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, R. 11,814
John Pierce, D. 2,743

Difficult to Get Returns.

There are now 621 voting districts in the county, and in a presidential year it is especially difficult to go over the returns at the prothonotary's office and compute the vote. This year the tally sheet is 14 feet in length and they are cumbersome to handle. In the country districts the election officers have two days in which to make their returns, and a number of them wait the full time. The returning board will begin the official count at noon today, and it will take at least a week to finish the work. Judges Rodgers and Macfarlane will supervise the count.

There is already a movement on foot to secure a new ballot law or an amendment of the present one. The loss in votes to both parties Tuesday has caused a desire for a less complicated ballot. Representative Robert McWhinney of Homestead says he will make a fight for the old style of ticket, where a cross in the party circle votes a straight ticket.

Boomed for President.

Senator P. C. Knox is not disposed to take seriously his boom for president in 1908. He says that he has never given the matter a thought. Early yesterday morning the senator received a long telegram from Senator Penrose, telling him of what had been accomplished in the state. Chairman Penrose put the Republican plurality at 400,000 and said that there would not be over 25 Democrats out of the 254 members in the next legislature. Senator Knox, accompanied by his wife, went to St. Louis last night to see the exposition. Chairman Ford also went to St. Louis.

W. J. Brennen was around bright and early yesterday morning telling what the Democrats will do in 1908. He says that there was a disease in the country Tuesday and the Allegheny county Democracy was not immune. In his opinion Parker was a weak candidate. The returns would indicate that there is some ground for his conclusion.

While most of the Citizens voted in Tuesday's election, they were not workers at the polls. The vote was gotten out by the regular Republicans. In the Twenty-second ward the Citizens are preparing to support Dr. John O. Bockstoce for common councilman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John F. Steel. He will run as an independent candidate. The Republican nominee is Frank P. Booth.

NEARLY THREE MILLIONS CHANGED HANDS IN BETS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Banks, trust companies, stock exchange firms and individuals who held the money put up by the bettors during the campaign, had a busy time of it today paying off the bets. It was estimated by conservative authorities that between $2,500,000 and $2,750,000 changed hands. There were few persons, however, who admitted they were losers. The largest part of the $2,500,000 was paid over to Wall street interests. A. A. Housman & Co. were generally credited as being the largest winners. They wagered about $700,000, practically all of which was for Wall street clients.

Bunnell, Buchanan & Co. placed in all between $875,000 and $400,000, principally that Roosevelt would carry New York state. The same firm bet $20,000 on Parker. Sheffield & McCullough backed Roosevelt for $350,000. Allen McGraw & Co. also scored large winnings.

The heaviest losers were the bettors represented by Batcheller & Adee. This house put up about $150,000 of Democratic money.

DEMOCRATS SIMPLY SWAMPED

Connecticut Republicans Surprised at Extent of Their Victory—Bryan Leader Turned Down.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 9.—The Republican pluralities in Connecticut for the national and state tickets exceed anything ever before experienced in the state. Revised returns from every city and town give Roosevelt a plurality of 88,197, while four years ago McKinley defeated Bryan at the high water mark of 28,568.

Lieut.-Gov. Henry Roberts, the Republican candidate for governor, although badly scratched in the cities, led Judge Robertson, his opponent, by 26,971. Congressman-at-Large Lilley shared in the flood of ballots by getting a plurality of 32,694 over William Kennedy of Naugatuck, formerly one of the Bryan leaders in the state.

The four re-elected Republican congressmen each had pluralities which the most confident never expected to see. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, the senate standing 30 Republican to 5 Democrats, and the house 215 Republicans to 36 Democrats, with two seats tied.

RADICALISM IS ITS ONLY HOPE

Mr. Bryan Declares That Democracy Essayed a Fatal Conservatism.

HOT EDITORIAL IN COMMONER

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 9.—In an editorial Col. William Jennings Bryan, in his newspaper, The Commoner, says:

The defeat of Judge Parker should not be considered a personal one. He did as well as he could under the circumstances; he was the victim of unfavorable conditions and of a mistaken party policy. The reorganizers were in complete control of the party; they planned the campaign and carried it according to their own views, and the verdict against their plan is an unimposing one. Surely, silver cannot be blamed for this defeat, for the campaign was run on a gold basis; neither can the defeat be charged to emphatic condemnation of the trusts, for the trusts were not assailed as vigorously this year as they were four years ago. It is evident that the campaign did not turn upon the question of imperialism, and it is not fair to consider the result as a personal victory for the president, although his administration was the subject of criticism. The result was due to the fact that the Democratic party attempted to be conservative in the presence of conditions which demand radical remedies. It sounded a partial retreat when it should have ordered a charge all along the line.

The Democratic party has nothing to gain by catering to organized and predatory wealth. It must not only do without such support, but it can strengthen itself by inviting the open and emphatic opposition of these elements. The campaign just closed shows that it is inexpedient, from the standpoint of policy, as it is wrong from the standpoint of principle to attempt any conciliation of the industrial and financial despots who are gradually getting control of all the avenues of wealth.

The election has opened the eyes of the hundreds of thousands of honest and well-meaning Democrats who a few months ago favored the reorganization of the party. These men now see that they must either go into the Republican party or join with the Democrats of the west and south into making the Democratic party a positive, aggressive and progressive reform organization. There is no middle ground.

Pledged His Assistance.

Mr. Bryan did what he could to prevent the reorganization of the Democratic party; when he failed in this he did what he could to aid Parker and Davis in order to secure such reforms, and there were some vital ones promised by their election. Now that the campaign is over, he will, both through The Commoner and by personal effort, assist those who desire to put the Democratic army once more upon a fighting basis; he will assist in organizing for the campaign in 1908. It does not matter so much who the nominee may be. During the next three years circumstances may bring into the arena some man especially fitted to carry the standard.

The party must continue to protest against a large army and against a large navy, and to stand for the independence of the Filipinos, for imperialism adds the menace of militarism to the corrupting influences of commercialism.

The party must also maintain its position on the tariff question, and increase its demand for an income tax, to be secured through a constitutional amendment, in order that wealth may be made to pay its share of the expenses of the government. The party must maintain its position in favor of bimetalism. It cannot surrender its demand for the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, but the question must remain in abeyance until conditions so change as to bring the public again face to face with falling prices and a rising dollar. This, therefore, cannot be made the controlling issue of the contest upon which we are entering.

The trust question presents the most acute phase of the contest between Democracy and plutocracy, so far as economic issues are concerned. The president virtually admits that the trusts contributed to his campaign fund but denies that they received any promises of aid or immunity. No well-informed person doubts that the large corporations have furnished the Republican campaign fund during the campaigns of 1896 and 1900 and 1904, and no one can answer the logic of Judge Parker's arraignment of trust contributions. The weakness of Judge Parker's position was that the charge was made at the close of the campaign when it was neutralized by a counter charge. The trusts cannot be fought successfully by any party that depends upon trusts' funds to win the election. The Democratic party must make its attack upon the trusts so vehement that no one will suspect of secret aid from them. It will be to its advantage if it will begin the next campaign with an announcement that no trust contributions will be accepted and then prove its sincerity by giving the public access to its contribution list. In public enterprises the names of contributors are generally made public in order to denote the character and purpose of the work.

Says Roosevelt Must Make Good.

President Roosevelt has four years in which to make good his declaration that no obligations were incurred by the acceptance of trust funds. He will disappoint either the contributors or the voters. If he disappoints the contributors the trust question may be put in the process of settlement. If he disappoints the people they will have a chance to settle with his party four years hence.

The party must continue its defense of the interests of the wage earners; it must protect them from the encroachments of capital. The people at large must insist upon remedial legislation in regard to the hours and arbitration and they must so limit the authority of the courts in contempt cases as to overthrow what is known as government by injunction.

The party must continue its opposition to banks of issue and must insist upon divorcing the treasury department from Wall street; fight for the popular election of senators and for direct legislation wherever the principle can be applied and not only maintain its position on old issues, but advance to the consideration of new questions as they arise.

It takes time to direct attention to an evil and still more time to consolidate sentiment in favor of a remedy, and Mr. Bryan is not sanguine enough to believe that all the reforms that he favors will at once be indorsed by any party platform, but the Commoner will proceed to point out reforms which he believes to be needed. Among these may be mentioned the postal telegraph system, state ownership of railroads, the election of federal judges for fixed terms, and the election of postmasters by the people of their respective communities. Instead of having the government controlled by corporations through officers chosen by the corporations, we must have a government of the people, by the people and for the people—a government administered according to the Jeffersonian maxim of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

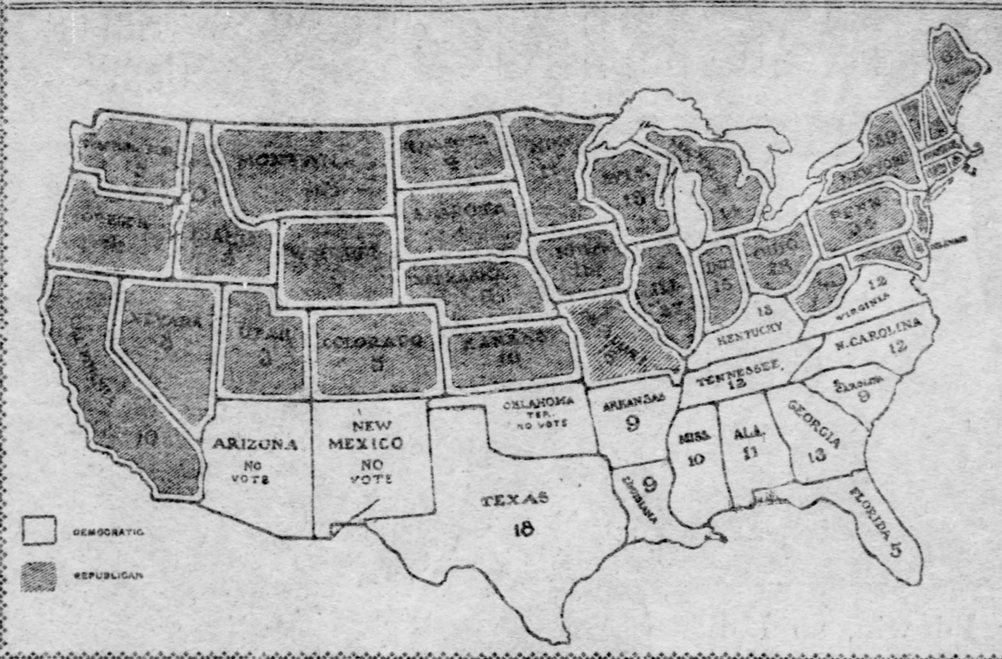
How the Different States Voted Tuesday



NOT AN ASSURANCE OF CONTINUAL POWER

Secretary Taft Says Sweeping Majority Might Change to Defeat in Four Years.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Secretary of War Taft today made a statement in regard to the sweeping Republican victory which is considered a keynote of a conservative Republican policy during the next four years. It is akin to the statement of Attorney General Knox after the victory over the Northern Securities merger, that the administration would not "run amuck" in prosecution of the trusts. This is Secretary Taft's statement:

Of course, I am very much gratified with the result, as every member of the administration of President Roosevelt must be, in this emphatic and exceptional popular approval of him and his character and his course, but the sweeping nature of the victory, evidencing, as it does, the confidence of the American people in the purposes and future acts of the Republican administration, does not in the slightest degree diminish the responsibility of those charged with the power and duty of carrying on the government, or diminish in any way the care with which the public interests must be protected.

The danger in the case of such a victory is that it may lead to a relaxing of the self-restraint that is more certain to be exercised when the danger of a political charge is more probable. It is no unheard-of thing to have a majority as large and sweeping as this followed by a defeat equally emphatic at the next presidential election, and it should be, as I have no doubt it will be, the aim, both of the executive administration and the Republican majority in the legislative branch of the government so to shape the policies to be pursued as to continue to deserve the approval of the country in subsequent elections.

Aged Woman Sent to Jail.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Annie Barrett of Donora, aged 69, today pleaded guilty to selling liquor illegally. She was sent to jail for three months and fined $500. She is unable to walk.

A DUTY WOMEN OWE THEMSELVES.

"Good actions speak louder than words," so too, does the testimony of many thousands of women during a third of a century speak louder than mere claims not backed by a guarantee of some kind. That is the reason why the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription are willing to offer $500 reward for women who cannot be cured. Such a remarkable offer is founded on the long record of cures of the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women. If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, the proprietors of that medicine would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write them as they offer, in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which they cannot cure. No other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its makers in making such an offer.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd, at their convent, "Our Lady of the Woods," Carthage, Ohio, use a great deal of Dr. Pierce's medicines; they say, in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce: "We beg to assure you of the great benefit these medicines give our ailing ones. We cannot sufficiently recommend their excellence."

When the druggist says he has something that is as good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, just tell him, "There's nothing just as good." He says so because he has to make a better profit but his own mixtures have not stood the test of long experience and success that Doctor Pierce's medicines have. Then, too, many patent medicines advertised as tonics, contain large quantities of alcohol. Dr. Pierce guarantees that his "Prescription" does not contain a particle of alcohol.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser—sent on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for a copy in paper; 31 stamps in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

It is a good thing to keep Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets in the house. One Pellet is a laxative, two a mild cathartic.

DEFEAT OF GOV. BATES PUZZLING HIS FRIENDS

Douglass' Victory Is Regarded as Inexplicable by Massachusetts Republican Leaders.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Returns from the state were completed today and figures show the Republican presidential electors received a plurality of 86,279 in a total vote of 422,825 cast by the Republicans and Democratic parties yesterday. The votes for president and the head of the state ticket were: Roosevelt, 254,552; Parker, 168,273; plurality for Roosevelt, 86,279. For governor—Douglas (Dem.), 234,311; Bates (Rep.), 198,691. Douglas' plurality, 35,710.

Both the total vote of the two parties and the Republican plurality for presidential electors are the largest ever returned in the state. The margin for Roosevelt exceeds by nearly 5,000 the then unprecedented plurality given McKinley in 1900.

On the other hand the vote for governor shows a plurality for the Democratic candidate of 35,710 and the defeat of Gov. Bates in a presidential year, which is considered one of the most inexplicable features of recent elections.

With the exception of Gov. Bates the Republican state ticket was elected by substantial pluralities. Complete returns for other state officers, however, will not be available for several days. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

NEBRASKA GOVERNORSHIP STILL A MATTER OF DOUBT

Complete Returns Are Necessary to Determine Result—Roosevelt's Plurality Is 75,000 or Greater.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 9.—Probably complete returns will be required to determine who is elected governor of Nebraska. Outside of governor, however, the Republicans have made a clean sweep on national, state, congressional and legislative tickets. For governor, both sides exhibit figures which they say will substantiate their claims for the election of their respective candidates. The Bee, Republican, this afternoon, has returns from 308 precincts outside of Omaha and Douglas county, which show a net gain for Barge (Fusionist) for governor. With this ratio of gain maintained, the result will be close, as Berge carried Douglas county by about 2,500 plurality, which, with the outside gains, would probably overcome Mickey's plurality of 5,000 two years ago. The World-Herald (Democratic) has returns from 307 precincts outside of Douglas county which show a net gain of 1,763 for Berge, which would clearly elect, should the same ratio be maintained. Thus the necessity of further and more complete returns only can determine the result on governor.

President Roosevelt carried the state by probably 75,000. Only two congressional districts, the Second and Third, were at any time in doubt and today's figures place them in the Republican column, thus giving a solid Republican delegation from Nebraska.

The legislative returns are still quite incomplete, but from figures available, it is reasonably certain that both houses of the legislature will be clearly Republican.

JOE FOLK ALONE SAVES ITS FACE

EVEN LEGISLATURE IS WON

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, No. 9.—With incomplete returns at hand, Roosevelt has broken the "solid south" by carrying Missouri for the Republican party for the first time in 20 years.

Fifty-eight widely scattered counties, out of 114, give Roosevelt a plurality over Parker of 12,282. Joseph W. Folk (Dem.) for governor, running in the neighborhood of 35,000 ahead of the state ticket, is given a plurality of 31,043 in the same counties, which include the city of St. Louis.

Carried with the Republican landslide are the candidates for congress in eight of the 16 districts, a Republican gain of seven, and the semi-official returns from the state legislative districts give a Republican majority of 14 on joint ballot in the next general assembly.

This will mean the defeat of United States Senator Cockrell for re-election. His probable successor will be either Cyrus P. Walbridge or Thomas K. Nieuringhaus, chairman of the Republican committee.

In view of the strong sweep of sentiment toward Republicanism in the state, and the probable defeat of all the state Democratic ticket, except Folk, the triumph of the "Missouri idea," as the boodle issue is here denominated, and of Folk, personally, is an hundred fold more significant. Democratic leaders admit tonight that with any other man than Folk at the head of their state ticket, Missouri would today be Republican from top to bottom.

Statehood Issue in Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, OKLA., Nov. 9.—Returns from 20 of 26 counties indicate the re-election of B. S. McGuire, Republican, as delegate to congress by about 1,800 majority over Frank Matthews, Democratic. Statehood was the issue upon which the campaign was fought in Oklahoma, and the result is an indorsement of the Hamilton bill, which has passed the lower house of congress and which provides joint statehood for Oklahoma and the Indian Territory in 1906.

MR. ROOSEVELT IS A HAPPY MAN

Officials and Citizens Join the President in Good Cheer at White House.

DALZELL EXPLAINS LANDSLIDE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

It was a well-satisfied, contented and happy man who walked over from the White House to the executive offices this morning and sat down behind the desk of the president's private office. The sun was smiling, the trees upon the White House were radiant in their autumn coats and the whole world was bright and rosy for Theodore Roosevelt. And who would not have been contented and happy in his place? It is given to but few men to reach the goal of their earthly ambitions at 46. Roosevelt is of the chosen few.

Not only was he the youngest president in the history of the country when at the age of 42 he succeeded to that office by a freak of fate. That in itself was a great distinction. But he is the youngest man to be elected to the office of president and will be the youngest to be inaugurated. Grant was 47 when he took the oath and Grover Cleveland was 48.

At the age of 43 George Washington had just been given command of the colonial army, and three years later, when he reached President Roosevelt's present age, he was in the midst of a struggle which to many appeared a forlorn hope. His army had just come through that terrible winter at Valley Forge and the outlook was anything but rosy. Washington's greatest achievements and the climax of his career were then before him. Grant received the surrender of Lee at Appomattox when he was 43, and three years later he was elected to his first term as president, though he was 47 when he became president. Lincoln was 49 when he entered the race for the United States senate against Douglass, and he was 51 when he became president of the United States.

Many Callers at White House.

Mr. Roosevelt, now three years chief executive, has been elected to succeed himself by the greatest tidal wave of political sentiment known in our history. And he has just turned 46. Verily the world should have seemed bright and smiling this morning.

No sooner had the president arrived at his office than the visitors began to arrive. Each succeeding bulletin told of victories at unexpected points and of unprecedented majorities. And with these messages of increased majorities came congratulations from friends and admirers, far and near. Humble citizens, who delight to know him as "Our Teddy," and crowned potentates of Europe, each sent their word of goodwill. And visitors thronged his office in person.

There was John Hay, rather old in years but young and vigorous mentally, who was Lincoln's assistant secretary from 1861 to the hour of the martyred president's death, and who now stands the conceded foremost of all diplomatists. He was smiling and chuckling at the news of the tremendous indorsement of Roosevelt and the administration of which he is no inconsiderable part. Then came Secretary of War Taft—big in mind and body, one of the young men of the country who has made his mark early. The man who first introduced the Filipinos to the beauties of civilization, and himself a mighty formidable possibility for the presidency four years hence, viewed from the present perspective. Secretary Taft worked hard in this campaign, doing his utmost to spread among the people the facts concerning conditions in the Philippines.

Widow of Famous Commander.

After Secretary Taft had extended his congratulations came Mr. Morton, secretary of the navy, another young man of the cabinet. Mr. Morton won success in the railroad business and he has entered upon his duties in the navy department with the same enthusiasm and devotion to his work that brought him to the front in the business world. He brought his message of goodwill and made way for others. Gen. Chaffee, chief staff of the navy; Gen. Black, a fighter of the civil war and now head of the civil service commission; Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, who came to brag of the atmospheric conditions that he had provided for the occasion, and hundreds of others came to pay their respects.

Among the callers was the widow of Maj. Robert Anderson, the man who commanded Fort Sumter, when it was fired upon by the secessionists at the beginning of the civil war. Mrs. Anderson is an invalid and could not leave her carriage, but when her name was announced the president walked out to the carriage and gracefully received her congratulations. He stood for some moments talking with her and Mrs. Anderson presented him with a beautiful bunch of roses.

Not the least interesting of the day's events was the call of a deputation of citizens of the District of Columbia, who came as neighbors to tell the president how pleased they were at his great victory. There was a graceful exchange of short speeches and each of the visitors left on the president's desk a red rose. All day long the procession of friends poured into the executive offices and all day long the wires kept ticking off messages of congratulation without number. When evening came it was a satisfied, contented and happy man who walked back to the White House from his desk, and he has just turned 46.

Different With the Democrats.

There was an opposite to this scene here today and it was to be witnessed at the headquarters of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. These rooms were the scene of the great tragedy of this Republican landslide. For weeks Representative W. S. Cowherd of Kansas City, as chairman, has labored here and strained every effort to assist in the election of a Democratic majority to the house of representatives, and incidentally to help the chances of Judge Parker. Poor of purse, but loud of voice in making claims, and with a breast surcharged with hope, Mr. Cowherd has worked on. Instead of staying at home and looking after his personal interests, he gave his services to his party. A few days ago he issued a statement to the press in which he figured out that the Democrats would have a majority of about 50 in the next house. But, alas! that majority has melted away and Mr. Cowherd has melted with it. The sad news of his defeat reached his headquarters this morning and added to the gloom that already enveloped them. Cowherd has gone, a martyr to "safe and sane" Democracy.

Col. Charley Edwards, secretary of the committee, Mr. Cowherd's hard working and efficient lieutenant, was enthroned in solitary glory at the committee's rooms today, with his feet on his desk and a magic circle of cigarette stumps surrounding him, he read and re-read the New York American's editorial telling how and why it occurred. It took away some of the sting. "Back to the mines for me," said the colonel. "There will be no strike tonight. Yes, I think Alabama and Mississippi are safe. But I have wired John Sharp Williams to make sure. When will we close up these offices? Right away. You don't see any particular and pressing need of keeping them open any longer, do you?" His last cigarette finished, the colonel put on his overcoat, and headed for Dennis Mullaney's. He will not be a candidate for clerk of the house.

No Election Promises.

A fact that has been remarked upon today is the enviable position in which President Roosevelt finds himself for the coming four years. He is entirely foot free and independent. He owes his election to no man or set of men. The politician who asks favors from him in return for support in this election will have a hardy nerve. He was elected by the people if ever a president was. He has announced, in terms that cannot be misconstrued that he will not be a candidate for another term, and hence no one can threaten him with their opposition. President Roosevelt is surely in a position to carry out his intention of giving everyone a square deal.

Representative John Dalzell arrived in Washington this morning from Pittsburgh, where he had gone to vote. He will be here the greater part of the time until congress meets. The result of the election bears out a prediction made by Mr. Dalzell just after the election in Vermont when that state rolled up the greatest Republican majority in its history. Commenting upon this vote, Mr. Dalzell said:

"It shows us that what we have mistaken for apathy was really decision. The people had made up their minds how they would vote, and there was no necessity for excitement. I believe this same condition exists throughout the entire country."

The returns show that this was the case. The people had made up their minds how they would vote, and by many this decision was mistaken for apathy. When asked for his opinion of the outcome, Mr. Dalzell said:

"It was a glorious victory. Adjectives are not strong enough to properly describe it. I believe that it was due largely to the personality of President Roosevelt; to his transparent honesty. That is a quality that the people admire. Another factor that contributed largely to the result was the weakness of Parker. He has been wrong in everything. On the trust question he began by criticising where there was no ground for criticism and gradually developed into a course of vulgar slander. Roosevelt's letter replying to the Parker charges made many Republican votes. It was a strong document and it rang true in every sentence. Altogether it seems to me that the result of this election means that the people fear to trust their interests to the Democratic party and that they prefer to let the present good conditions prevail without change."

DEFEAT FOR QUARLES OR BITTER DEADLOCK

Wisconsin's Senator Certain to Face Trouble in Legislature. Babcock's Close Call.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 9.—The result of the election in Wisconsin shows that Roosevelt ran ahead of every ticket and carried the state by a plurality estimated at between 60,000 and 75,000; that Gov. LaFollette has been re-elected by a plurality of about 50,000, and that the congressional complexion remains unchanged from two years ago. The legislature, which is to elect a United States senator to succeed Joseph V. Quarles, is largely Republican, and the question of whether Wisconsin will have a primary election law has carried by a safe majority. One of the surprises in the election was the big increase in the vote of the Social-Democratic party. Four years ago that party polled 4,458 votes in Milwaukee county; two years ago 10,764, and in this election 18,120. The Social-Democrats elected four assemblymen and one senator to the legislature.

In the legislature Chairman W. D. Conner of the LaFollette state central committee claims there will be 80 members pledged to carry out the measures advocated by the LaFollette. Of this number 63 are assemblymen and 17 senators, or a majority of each house. Chairman Goldin of the Stalwart Republican faction claims that the Stalwarts and Democrats combined will control a majority of each house, and he predicts that if United States Senator Quarles is not re-elected the legislature will probably find itself in a deadlock.

Perhaps the greatest surprise of the election was the narrow margin on which Congressman Joseph W. Babcock pulled through, his plurality of 8,000 two years ago being cut to about 300 this year. This was caused through the war of the state administration on the Third district congressman.

DEMOCRAT FOR GOVERNOR.

But Minnesota Republicans Elect Balance of Ticket—Phenomenal Vote for President Roosevelt.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 9.—When all the returns shall have been received it is claimed by Republicans that Roosevelt's majority will run close to 125,000, if not more. An estimate made today from incomplete returns indicates 100,000 majority. The Republicans elected the entire nine congressmen without a shadow of doubt and the rest of the state ticket, including a state legislature, which is strongly Republican on joint ballot.

John A. Johnson (Dem.) and Ray W. Jones (Rep.) were elected governor and lieutenant governor respectively. The election of a Democratic governor is the second in the history of the state.

ADDICKS A WINNER.

Delaware Result Regarded as Likely to Insure His Election to the United States Senate.

WILMINGTON, DEL., Nov. 9.—The Republicans have made a clean sweep in this state. Roosevelt's plurality will be over 4,000, while Lea, the Republican compromise candidate for governor, will have a plurality of nearly 3,500.

The Republicans have elected their congressman and will have a majority on joint ballot in the legislature of 16. This will probably mean the election of J. Edward Addicks as United States senator.

New Hampshire Exceeds Records.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 9.—New Hampshire yesterday polled the largest vote in its history, the result being a decided Republican victory for both national and state tickets. Roosevelt carried the state against Parker by about 20,000 plurality, while John McLane, Republican, defeated Henry F. Hollis, Democrat, for governor by about 15,000. The Republicans will have a majority of about 100 in the state legislature.

Babcock Returned to Congress.

MADISON, WIS., Nov. 9.—Complete official returns show Congressman Babcock was elected by 284 majority.

Bellevue Approved Bond Issue.

Bellevue voters approved the issue of $80,000 worth of bonds for improvements yesterday. The proposition carried in every ward.

ISSUE IN DOUBT; CONTEST LIKELY

Both Parties Are Still Claiming the Election of Governor in Colorado.

FRAUD CHARGES ARE MADE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

DENVER, COL., Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's plurality in Colorado has been increased by later returns and may run above 15,000. Republicans and Democrats claim the election of governor and congressmen-at-large, and the Republicans threaten to contest the state election on the grounds of alleged frauds in Denver. On the face of nearly complete returns, Adams has carried Denver county by 4,500 plurality, and he appears to have a safe lead over Peabody without this county. According to the returns Adams' plurality in the state is a little over 10,000. The claim is made that the legislature is Democratic in both branches.

GOV. JAMES PEABODY.
Whose Re-Election Is Disputed by Colorado Democrats.

The Republican newspapers place Gov. Peabody's plurality at 5,000.

Republican Chairman D. B. Fairley makes the following claim:

"Peabody will be elected by somewhere between 5,000 and 10,000. The state ticket will run between 10,000 and 15,000. Roosevelt will run even higher than that. The three congressmen are elected by pluralities above 10,000. I expect to bring Peabody to Denver with a plurality ranging from 7,000 to 10,000. This is large enough to offset any frauds the Democrats might attempt in Denver. We will control both houses of the legislature by good majorities."

Democratic Chairman Milton Smith made the following statement this evening:

"Alva Adams is elected by from 10,000 to 15,000. All the state ticket goes in with him, according to our best information."

WAS NOTABLE VICTORY, SAYS MR. FAIRBANKS

Most of All He Is Pleased at the Conduct of the Hoosier State.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 9.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, vice president-elect, today received a flood of telegrams, one of the earliest messages to arrive being a cablegram from John K. Gowdy, consul general at Paris. He received many callers during the morning and afternoon. Speaking of the result of the election, he said:

It is a notable victory—one of the greatest victories that has been achieved in American politics. It is a victory for right principles over wrong ones; it is a victory for the principles of the Republican party and for the magnificent administration of Theodore Roosevelt as president. The American people are a great people, and when they think upon great political questions their judgments are righteous altogether. I am gratified with the results in many of the states of the union, but it is needless for me to say that I am most gratified with the magnificent patriotism manifested by the great state of Indiana. But we should all remember that the debate has closed, the verdict has been rendered and we all now settle back to our duties as citizens of this great republic and to our duties to one another.

The senator did not say what would be his course in regard to the Indiana senatorship, which he now holds. He will resign it formally, but how soon he was not today ready to announce.

HEARST SAYS DEMOCRACY WILL REORGANIZE ITSELF

Says He Has No Knowledge of Meeting Between Bryan, Watson and Himself.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—William R. Hearst issued the following statement today in regard to the rumored plan of reorganization of the Democratic party:

I have no knowledge of any meeting between Mr. Watson, Mr. Bryan and myself. I think the Democratic party will reorganize itself on basis of true Democracy, eliminating the Wall street influence that proved so disastrous in this campaign, and I, as a loyal Democrat, will be very happy to see that done.

I shall be glad to work with all loyal Democrats for the success of Democratic principles, but I think the loyal Democrats are quite capable of choosing their own leaders, and I imagine this point will now be conceded by those who endeavored to force leaders upon them.

SWEPT BY ROOSEVELT.

Republican Victory in Washington Approaches 30,000 Mark—Legislature Is Strongly Republican.

SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 9.—Complete returns from one-fourth of all the precincts in the state of Washington and incomplete returns from most of the others show the Roosevelt electors have carried this state by 30,000 votes.

Albert E. Mead (Rep.) is elected governor over George Turner (Dem.) by between 5,000 and 7,000 votes. Humphrey, Jones and Cushman for congress have higher majorities. The next legislature will be very strongly Republican.

KAISER WILLIAM CABLES HIS CONGRATULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The president today received the following cablegram from Emperor William:

"Neus Palais, November 9.
"President Roosevelt, U. S. A., Washington:

"Sincerest congratulations. May heaven give you prosperity. Tuum quod bonum felix faustumque sit populo, Americano.
(Signed.) "WILLIAM, I. R."

A free translation of the Latin in the above cablegram is as follows: "May your good administration be happy and prosperous to the American people."

Alabama 50,000 Democratic.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Nov. 9.—Indications are that the Democratic majority in Alabama will not fall short of 50,000. All Democratic congressmen are elected.

TARIFF REVISION WILL BE SLOW

President Roosevelt May Recommend Change in the Schedules Next Year.

WOULD NOT DISTURB BUSINESS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

A report has gained circulation here to the effect that when congress convenes in December, 1905, President Roosevelt will send in a message recommending a revision of the tariff. The report is not vouched for by any Republican of prominence, but several members of congress have stated that such a thing is a possibility. A member of the committee on ways and means today said he would not be surprised if such a message should be sent to congress next year, though he did not believe it would be done at the approaching session of congress.

There is no doubt but the majority of the Republicans of congress are opposed to any changes in the tariff law at this time, though what attitude they will take towards it a year from now cannot be forecasted. If tariff revision is undertaken, it will be done in a manner so as not to disturb business conditions and always with the great principle of protection in view.

It will amount only to such rearrangement of schedules as is considered necessary and will not be followed by any commercial and financial excitement as would come if the job were to be undertaken by a Democratic congress.

President Roosevelt is a strong protectionist. He would never approve any measure in which the spirit of this principle did not prevail, even should congress enact such a law. But for some time there has been a growing belief in certain sections of the country that a revision of some of the schedules of the Dingley law is desirable. The much-talked of "Iowa idea" was built upon this sentiment and was presented to congress at the last session by Senator J. P. Dolliver in an eloquent speech. Mr. Dolliver did not demand any immediate action along this line, but spoke merely to elucidate the idea that bears the name of his state. His remarks were listened to with great interest by Republican leaders. There are other prominent Republicans who entertain similar ideas, and it is possible that the president may take the view that some changes should be made.

There is no possibility of anything being done along this line at the forthcoming session of congress. The Republicans now have a majority of 32 in the house of representatives, which is a good margin, but the returns indicate that in the next house they will have a majority of 100 or near that. Consequently it would be preferable, if this subject is taken up, that it be done by a congress in which the Republicans have a large majority, all of them friendly to the principle of protection. The Republican national platform adopted at Chicago says:

"We insist upon the maintenance of the principle of protection, and therefore rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration; but this work cannot be safely committed to any other hands than those of the Republican party. To intrust it to the Democratic party is to invite disaster."

CALIFORNIA LINES UP WITH 100,000 PLURALITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's plurality in this state will exceed 100,000. In this city alone it is 21,833 and in 1,627 interior precincts, so far as heard from, it amounts to 83,300, making a total of 105,141. The full delegation of eight congressmen will be Republican and an overwhelming Republican majority in the legislature insures the election of a Republican successor to Senator Bard.

PENNYPACKER TAKES PHILOSOPHICAL VIEW

Governor Analyzes the Causes Which Led to Complete Rout of the Democracy.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—"What do you think of the Republican victory?" was asked of Gov. Pennypacker at the executive department this afternoon.

"It was very sweeping," he replied.

"And to what do you attribute it?" the governor was asked.

"I think Mr. Roosevelt is a man of strong personality, who has impressed himself upon the American people as honest, capable and efficient, and they were satisfied with him. I think, too, the Democrats were in an attitude which was both negative and uncertain.

"People are not apt to advance very far by mere exercise of the critical faculties. Parties, in order to succeed, need some principle of value to the cause of humanity, which they intend to support earnestly and aggressively. In the present instance, the change from the views of Bryan to the views of Parker was too abrupt to inspire confidence."

STATE'S MAJORITY STILL GROWING

Late Returns Show Mr. Roosevelt's Plurality Increased by 25,000.

ROLL CALL OF THE COUNTIES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Complete returns have been received from less than half the counties in Pennsylvania. These show the remarkable increase in Roosevelt's plurality, over the estimated returns of last night, of more than 25,000 votes. Roosevelt's plurality in this state will reach 400,000.

Returns have been received from various counties as follows:

Carson—Roosevelt, 4,500; Parker, 3,024; Swallow, 138; Debs, 688. Elkin, 3,601; Thompson, 2,768. Congress—Schneebli, 3,806; Broadhead, 2,785; Schull, 151. Legislature—Bacon, 3,831, Grant, 3,004. District attorney—Gray (Rep.), 4,606; Sharkey (Dem.), 3,010.

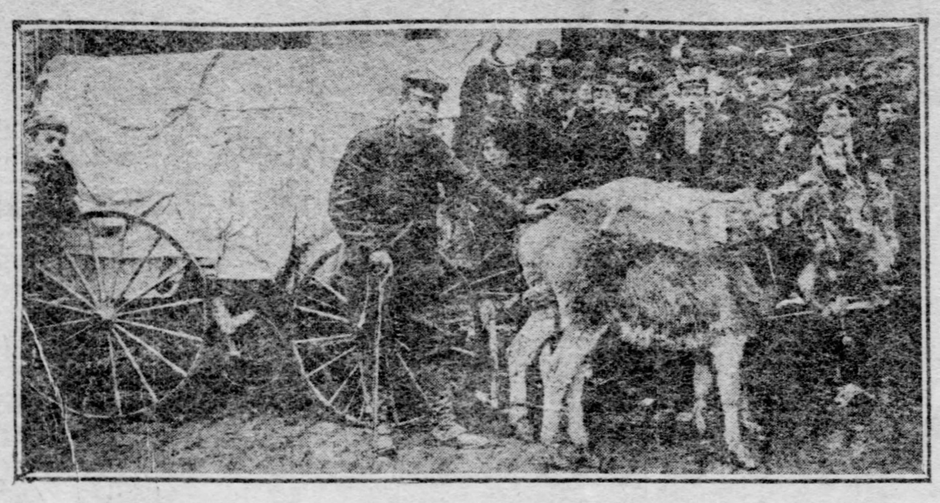
"THE VIRGINIA CREEPER EXPRESS"



Michael G. Harman arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday morning having walked all the way from San Francisco. His traveling outfit was one of the most unique which has been seen in this city for many a day. It consisted of a small-sized prairie schooner drawn by three diminutive burros. By the side of one of the animals trotted a burro colt. The little animal was born en route and has footed it all the way.

Harman, according to his story, traveled from San Francisco to Los Areas, N. M., alone. There he outfitted the schooner and employed C. H. Heineken as engineer of "The Virginia Creeper Express." Harman is a native of Lexington, Va., and is a son of the state treasurer of Virginia. He is an attorney and has made the trip, which will be continued to New York, for the benefit of his health and also to study the political conditions of the country, as he intends writing a book upon that subject. Heineken is also a native of Virginia and was born on the Bull Run battlefield.

The travelers stopped for several weeks at the St. Louis fair, where they took first prize for their unique outfit. The little schooner is filled with blankets and other traveling necessities, the men putting up along the road wherever night happens to overtake them. They expect to reach New York about December 10. Harman left San Francisco February 8 and the burro outfit left Los Areas early in May. They have been on the way ever since. That their outfit has traveled is evidenced by the hundreds of autographs scribbled on the canvas cover. It is literally covered with the names and addresses of those who have viewed the curious turnout along the way and probably a couple of thousand names and addresses are written on the canvas.

FEARED LOSS OF VALUABLE GRANT

Pittsburgh Railways Company Is Building Line Out Howard Street, Allegheny.

CONNECTS WITH EAST STREET

Fearing that Allegheny councils were about to revoke its franchise for the line to West View, the Pittsburgh Railways Company is getting ready to build a double track out Howard street to Elmira street, about a mile, where a connection will be made with the East street line. For a couple of days ties and rails have been hauled to Howard street, preparatory to the construction of the line and the digging up of the street for the track is expected to start today.

Allegheny councilman declare this move on the part of the traction company is the result of the threat made by them to investigate the right of the company to hold the franchise for a line to West View, because the Howard street section of the line has never been built, as required by the ordinance which granted the Mellons the franchise, afterward purchased by the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The franchise was granted in August, 1901, and it was stipulated in the ordinance that the entire line should be completed within two years. The route started at the city boundary, adjoining West View, thence along Perrysville avenue to East street, to Elmira, to Howard, to North avenue, to Middle, to Third street and return, giving the company the right to build a double track.

No tracks were laid in Middle, Howard or Elmira streets, but the old East street tracks were extended from Royal street, which was the former terminus, to the intersection with Perrysville avenue and out Perrysville avenue to West View. Allegheny councilmen recently examined the ordinance and came to the conclusion that if the tracks were not laid in Howard street the company had no right to occupy the East street extension and Perrysville avenue under this grant.

They declared their intention last week, through The Gazette, of having the franchise for the West View line revoked on the grounds that the company had not kept its contract with the city.

By going ahead and laying the tracks in Howard street at this late day, more than a year after the two years' limit has expired, the company evidently hopes to avoid any legal dispute over the franchise. The line to West View is proving a paying one, although cars are not run oftener than 16 minutes apart, and the district along the line is rapidly being built up. It promises to be one of the most lucrative lines of the company in a few years.

There is now a single track in Madison avenue, from North avenue to East street intersection, which the outbound East street cars use and it is believed that it is the intention of the traction company to divert the traffic from Madison avenue, as the track in Madison avenue is within a few feet of the steep hillside from which frequent landslides come in wet weather. If this is done, the Madison avenue tracks will only be used enough to hold the right to the occupancy of the street.

PARKER UNVEILS "LEADING ISSUE"

Trust Control of Elections, He Declares, Livest Question Before the Nation.

NEVER AGAIN SEEKS OFFICE

ESOPUS, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Judge Parker tonight gave to the press an open letter, addressed "To the Democracy of the Nation," in which he thanked those in charge of his campaign work and declared that the people will soon realize that "the tariff-fed trusts are absorbing the wealth of the nation." He said that when that time comes the people will turn to the Democratic party for relief.

In this letter Judge Parker says he shall never seek a nomination for public office. He discusses the difficulties encountered by the Democrats in making their campaign this year and makes suggestions regarding harmony in the party. In conclusion the judge says that in the presence of defeat he does not hesitate to say that in his opinion the great moral question that confronts the Democrats is, "Shall the trusts and corporations be prevented from contributing money to control, or to aid in controlling elections?"

The letter follows:

Does Not Regret Defeat.

Our thanks are due to the members of the national committee and to the executive committee in charge of the campaign for most unselfish, capable and brilliant party service. All that it was possible for men to do they did, but our difficulty was beyond the reach of party managers.

I am most grateful to them and wish in this general way to extend my thanks to the workers, as well as the rank and file, all over the country. I know how hard they struggled against overwhelming odds, and I only wish I could take each one by the hand and thank him.

Deeply as I regretted leaving the bench at the time of it, in the presence of overwhelming defeat, I do not lament it. I thought it was my duty. In the light of my present information I am now even more confident that I did right. I shall never seek a nomination for public office, but I shall to the best of my ability serve the party that has honored me, and through the party serve my country. The party has in the near future a great mission. Before long the people will realize that the tariff-fed trusts and illegal combinations are absorbing the wealth of the nation.

Then they will wish to throw off these leeches, but the Republicans will not aid them to do it, for its leaders appreciate too well the uses to which the moneys of the trusts can be put in political campaigns.

When that time comes, and come it will, the people will turn to the Democratic party for relief, and the party should be ready—ready with an organization of patriotic citizens covering every election district, who are willing to work for the love of the cause—an organization supported by as many town, city, county and states offices as we are able to elect in the meantime. We entered this canvass with every northern, western and eastern state, save one, in Republican control.

This gave to the party a large army of office-holders reaching into every hamlet, many of whom gladly followed the examples set for them by the members of the president's cabinet in devoting their time and services to the party.

To accomplish much in this direction, however, we must forget the difficulties of the past. If anyone suspects his neighbor of treachery let him not hint of his suspicion. If he knows he has deserted us, let him not tell it. Our forces have been weakened by divisions. We have quarreled at times over non-essentials. If we would help the people, if we would furnish an organization through which they may be relieved of a party that has grown so corrupt that it will gladly enter into partnership with trusts to secure moneys for election purposes, we must forget the differences of the past and begin this day to build up wherever it may be needed, a broad and effective organization, and we must by constant teaching, through the press and from the platform, apprise the people of the way the vicious tariff circle works.

Trust Control of Elections.

We must bring home to them at other than election times the fact that moneys contributed to the Republican party by the trusts is not only dishonest money, but it is given that the trusts may, without hindrances, take a much larger sum from the people.

In the presence of a defeat that would take away all personal ambition—were it true that otherwise it possessed me—I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion the greatest moral question which now confronts us is:

Shall the trusts and corporations be prevented from contributing money to control, or to aid in controlling elections?

Such service as I can render in that or any other direction will be gladly rendered.

And I beg the co-operation as a fellow-worker of every Democrat in the country.

ALTON B. PARKER.

The telegraph office at Rosemount lodge was dismantled tonight after the day's business. Judge Parker said tonight that his plans for the future were not definitely made, but that soon he would be in harness again. It is generally believed here that he will engage in the practice of law in New York, forming a partnership with some well established firm.

While Judge Parker was judge of the supreme court he received an offer of $50,000 a year to become special counsel for a New York law firm. Mrs. Parker at that time urged him to accept it and his family now approve of his intention to resume his law practice in New York.

Hauled Sulky to Pay Election Bet.

Because he had wagered that Parker would carry New York state, John Yeck, a driver for the Iron City brewery, last night dragged a fellow driver in a light racing sulky from the brewery at Thirty-fourth street, more than four miles to the Park hotel, Bauerstown. The four miles were accomplished in less than 45 minutes. On the return frequent stops were made for refreshments, and upon reaching the Forty-third street bridge the crowd of rooters was demoralized by Millvale officers arresting H. J. Donnerkeup, a driver for the Wainwright brewery. Throughout the trip Yeck cheered for Parker.

BLUES AND TIGERS PREPARE FOR HARD STRUGGLE

YALE'S DEFENSE IS STILL WEAK

Scrubs Score by Line Plunges. Tigers Go After a Blue Team and Make a Hit.

HARVARD DOES HARD WORK

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 9.—Yale undergraduates who marched from the campus to the field today, a mile and a half to cheer the team, were not reassured by what they saw. The varsity was scored upon by the scrubs after the latter had carried the ball 70 yards by line plunges and end runs. As today was to be the last hard work in preparation for the Princeton game, the weakness of the Yale defense was a surprise. Later in the practice the varsity team was held for four downs by the scrubs inside the latter's five-yard line. Vance McCormick, mayor of Harrisburg, captain of Yale's eleven in 1892 who helped to coach the varsity today gave the team one more chance which enabled the regulars to score a touchdown. Later they scored another.

Not yet are the coaches ready to give the lineup for the Princeton game. It is possible that Shevlin will not play. He is still a cripple and out of the game. Bloomer played hard today with a shoulder saddle for protection. Rockwell's physical condition is not fit for a long, hard game for which reason Hutchinson was again in charge of the quarterback position. Wernecken was drilled thoroughly at the morning practice on the gym lot as the man most likely to fill Veeders place as punting halfback. Veeder is practically out of the race, not having cleared himself of scholarship conditions. Yale men refuse to give Princeton backers odds here on the game.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—University Field at this afternoon's practice was the scene of a wild outburst of enthusiasm on the part of Princeton's entire undergraduate body. In order to arouse enthusiasm to help the team to cope with Yale next Saturday, the students, led by a brass band paraded to the field by way of Nassau street, singing college songs and cheering loudly. Throughout the course of the practice there was a steady uproar and the new songs were rehearsed.

The scrimmage was meant for a Yale game in miniature. To brighten the effect, the scrub appeared in blue sweaters and stockings and each man bore on his chest a huge white "Y." The customary cheers in salute of the visiting team were given and the stands echoed more than once with generous triple cheers for Yale. Apparently the pretence had a powerful effect on the varsity's work, for they toiled with a fierce energy that would have done them credit in the Yale game itself. Their work on the offense showed an aggressive strength that tore the scrub line to shreds, but true to the intention of the coaches not to do much heavy scrimmaging a large part of the plays were made around the ends. It was by this chiefly that the touchdowns, five in number, were made. The results of the afternoon were the more surprising in that four of the strongest forwards, Butcher, Stannard, Short and Coney were taking a layoff at the side lines.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The coaches of the Harvard football eleven have turned their attention to offensive team work for they feel that to make any sort of a showing against Yale, Harvard must have a scoring team, especially since she has been so weak on the defensive all the season. Today's practice was given up wholly to perfecting the plays that will be used against the Eli's. When the men came on the field soon after 3 o'clock they were at once put to running through their plays and after more than half an hour of this they were lined up against the second team for a scrimmage that lasted over half an hour. In this time the varsity scored five touchdowns, though they were held several times for downs by the second eleven. There was considerable fumbling due largely to Parkinson's poor passes.

The coaches have now practically decided on the eleven that will begin the game with Yale a week from Saturday. Montgomery and Randall will be the ends. These two men have been playing their positions all the week and have improved steadily. Brill and Meier are pretty sure to be the tackles, though Roger Derby has been making a good showing since he got back into the scrimmage. Schoenfuss and Squires are likely to be the guards. Schoenfuss has been out but 10 days, but he has shown the most natural ability of all the men who have played at the position this year. Of tackles is still a fight between him and White. Parker will be at center, as he continues to improve, and is now far ahead of Kernan or Noyes. Mills will be fullback and Captain Hurley right halfback, while left half lies between Sperry and Nichols.

Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The victory over Pennsylvania State Saturday last has put some new life into the Navy team and the practice every day this week has been very spirited. The team men have been excused from afternoon drills until after the West Point game and much more satisfactory practice work can be had. Head Coach Dashiell is devoting particular attention to the back and Doherty at left half. Ghormley at full and Norton, the new drop kicking quarter are doing the most steady work.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO SECURE COLLEGE GAME FOR THIS CITY

The wonderful success achieved by this season's W. U. P. football team has led to a renewal of the reports that an effort is to be made to have one of the big college elevens visit this city next season in order to meet the local team and test its real strength.

It was given out last night that A. R. Peacock, who has been an enthusiastic attendant at the majority of the games played by W. U. P. this season, has made the offer to pay all expenses of the Princeton team if that eleven will consent to visit this city and meet the W. U. P. team next season. This offer has probably been twisted, and it is more than likely that Mr. Peacock consents to defray the expenses of the W. U. P. team to Princeton providing that a game with the Tigers can be arranged.

Local followers of football will recall that some years ago when football enthusiasm was at its height in this city an effort was made to get the Princeton team to come here and play a game with one of the leading teams and that the sum of $10,000 was raised for that purpose, but this offer was refused by the Princeton officials, and as the line over college football have been drawn even closer since that time, a visit from the Tigers or any of the other big college teams can hardly be looked for.

OFFICIALS SELECTED FOR BIG PREP GAME

Church and Thompson Will Preside Over the Annual High School-Shadyside Contest.

At a meeting last night of the representatives of High school and Shadyside arrangements were completed for their annual football game to be played at Friendship park, Saturday, November 19. The players were put through some lively practice in defensive work. Coaches Haugh and McDevitt played with the scrubs to give the regular's line a test.

The Braddock High school football team lost a good game yesterday afternoon at Edgar Thomson Steel Works park to the McKeesport High school team. There was an enthusiastic crowd of 400 rooters at the game. McKeesport scored after two minutes' play on a fumble by their opponents. After the touchdown, Braddock braced up and McKeesport never neared Braddock's goal. Line-up:

Honored Mrs. Hoog.

The members of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and their friends gathered yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James R. Mellon in North Negley avenue to do honor to Mrs. Julia K. Hogg of New Rochelle, N. Y. Mrs. Hogg, who founded the Pittsburgh chapter, is at present honorary state regent of the D. A. R. Mrs. Mellon had extended invitation to Mrs. Jefferson Taylor, regent of the Greensburg chapter, Mrs. Minnie Borchers of the Washington, Pa., chapter; Mrs. Elizabeth Royce of New Castle, and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, regent of the Brookville chapter. Mrs. Mellon's home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, pink chrysanthemums predominating in the furnishings of the drawing room. White chrysanthemums brightened the library, and the green tones of the living room contrasted strongly with the deep rich red of the carnations with which it was decorated. Yellow chrysanthemums were used in the dining room.

Conrad-McKalip.

Henry W. McKalip, the well-known real estate dealer of Wilkinsburg, was quietly married last night to Miss Gertrude A. Conrad, daughter of Mrs. Lucella Conrad of 6627 Tennis street, East End. The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, in Meadow street, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hillman, officiating. There were no attendants and only the relatives of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony. Mr. McKalip is well-known in business and political circles and the bride is prominent socially in the East End. She is a sister of Mrs. John M. Davies, whose husband is president of the Liberty Real Estate and Trust Company. The young couple started on a western trip last night and met with a noisy demonstration at Union station, where almost a hundred of their friends gathered with cow bells and horns. On their return Mr. and Mrs. McKalip will make their home in Boundary street, Wilkinsburg.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE WILL BE COMPLETED

Meeting of Managers Called for Tonight. All the Teams Have Been Strengthened.

There will be a meeting of basketball team managers at J. Will Luckhardt's this evening to complete the organization of the Western Pennsylvania Basketball league for the season. Much of the preliminary work has already been completed. The finishing touches will be put on this evening. There is room for another fast team, and applicants desiring admission should have representatives present. Nearly all the teams have been strengthened and the outlook for a successful season is good.

The first big basketball game of the season will be played tonight at Raleigh hall, Locust and Market streets, Allegheny. After a month of hard and continuous practice the Manchester team is now in the pink of condition for their opening game at home. The Manchester rooters are highly elated over the splendid showing made by their team in the two games already played, and are ready to give the boys a big sendoff when they appear on the floor tonight. The team scheduled to oppose Manchester in this initial struggle is the strong Junction five, which gave the local team such a hard run at Rochester last Monday night. They will bring with them tonight a large crowd of Beaver Valley rooters, who will encourage their players with cow bells, horns, etc.

It is said that George Kallock will manage Allegheny Lyceum this year.

East of Geneva college and Campbell of Butler, two of the best players in Western Pennsylvania, will play with South Side this season.

Manchester is much stronger, having Yeager, the old D. C. & A. C. star, at forward, Stehle of the Hans Wagner team at center, and Patterson of Geneva college at guard.

Robert L. Kelly will referee the game at South Side next Saturday night, where East Liberty will go against the South Side champions. Bob always gives satisfaction.

The Fayette Midgets would like to hear from all 11 or 12-year-old teams, all games to be played away from home. Address John McNulty, 1619 Market street, Allegheny.

The Young American Juniors would like to hear from all 12 and 13-year-old teams. The Tom Thumbs, Railroad Midgets, Fowler Midgets and Manchester Midgets preferred. Address Walter Wohlfarth, Eighth avenue, Homestead.

The Herron Hill basketball team will play its second game of the season tomorrow night, when it will go to East Liverpool to meet the team of that place. The following Herron Hill players are requested to report at the Ft. Wayne depot, Allegheny, at 5:20 p. m. without fail: Lowery, Zumpft, Liney, Delehanty, Schmidt, Shields, Marsula and Nieman.

On Saturday night of this week the Manhattan A. C. and Rambler A. C. will meet in a Manchester league game at Raleigh hall. This game will be preceded by a game between the Tom Thumbs and the Fayette Midgets of the Raleigh league. On Monday night of next week the Manchester team will play the crack East Liverpool five at Manchester.

NEARLY LOST HIS WIFE.

Pennsylvania Limited Held for the United States Senator Until Mrs. Knox Arrived.

United States Senator Philander C. Knox, just before leaving last evening for St. Louis, had his nerves at a high tension for several minutes. Mrs. Knox, who accompanied the senator to St. Louis, also endured a nervous strain.

Mrs. Knox and their son, Reed, were at Valley Forge and it was arranged they come to Pittsburgh on the Pennsylvania Limited, which arrives at the Union station at 8:55 p. m. Through some mistake, they did not come on the Limited, but on the second section. Train 27 for St. Louis is scheduled to leave the Union station at 9:10. The senator and party boarded the train as soon as it arrived, but Mrs. Knox was not aboard.

The senator was in a dilemma. He was averse to going to St. Louis without Mrs. Knox, and upon inquiry he found the second section was 10 minutes late, consequently would not arrive until five minutes after the St. Louis train had departed.

District Attorney James S. Young pleaded the case before the station master and the verdict was that train 27 be held at the station until the arrival of the second section of the Limited and as much longer as required to transfer Mrs. Knox. When the train pulled in Mrs. Knox already knew of her mistake and ran like a little schoolgirl to join her husband.

Holdups Scare Ben Avon.

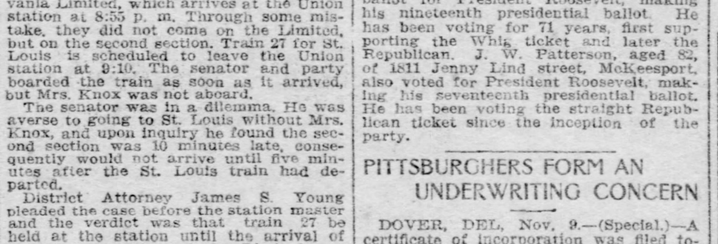
Three recent holdups have alarmed the residents of Ben Avon. Tuesday evening George Sharp found a man lying unconscious in the road near the I. O. O. F. orphans' home. He recovered, and said he had been assaulted and robbed of $5 and a watch. He refused to give his name, but said he lived near Emsworth. Two other holdups have been reported in this vicinity within a week.

Robbery at Avalon.

Burglars entered the home of George B. Lewis, an attorney living at Avalon, yesterday afternoon. They got away with eight rings, three diamond brooches, a collection of coins, and about $8 in cash. The total loss is about $300. The family was away and entrance was gained by cutting out the glass panel of the front door.

Nose Was Torn Off.

Dominick Moser, a laborer in the Etna rolling mills of the Spang-Chalfant Company, was taken to the Allegheny General hospital last evening. Moser was turning the crank by which the crane is raised when he lost his grip and the handle, whirling around with terrific force, struck him on the nose, crushing it and tearing it from his face.



BREWING IS LEARNED

by the light of Experience. Long years ago, in the Fatherland, where beer-brewing is better understood than anywhere else on earth, our master brewers worked and studied. Their work was beer—their subject was beer—beer entered into their hours of play. In a word, they lived beer—they know how to brew the mild and healthful beverage as it should be brewed—with the best hops and malt and with nothing else.

These are the men who are proud of the

SIDE LINES WILL BE KEPT CLEAR

W. U. P. and State College Representatives Make Move to Please the Public.

THE PLAYERS BADLY USED UP

All of the preliminary arrangements for the Thanksgiving day football game between W. U. P. and State college elevens were completed yesterday at a conference between Coach Mosse of W. U. P. and C. E. Aull, representing State. Matters football men usually squabble over for hours were arranged in a satisfactory manner in 10 minutes.

One agreement entered that will please the football public was that the side lines which are usually crowded with extra players and others are to be kept free. Not one line privilege will be printed so none can be issued. This is in line with the manner in which the big college games in the east are conducted, which leaves the side lines free of obstruction, and therefore a good view point for the football experts. The subs, trainers, doctors and water carriers will all be required to occupy the benches close to the grand stand. Coach Mosse of W. U. P., and Coach Golden of State, with the linesmen and the timers, will be the only persons allowed on the side lines.

Grand stand and box tickets for the Thanksgiving day game will be placed on sale at Pratt's Tuesday, November 15.

State college asked for the entire first section and W. U. P. agreed to give it up. The center of the field is directly opposite the aisle which separates section A from section B. W. U. P. will reserve section G for its own use. Sections E, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, will be placed on sale.

The officials will be selected next Tuesday at noon. The teams will exchange their list of players then. There will be no hitch over either matter.

Manager states Perry has a broken finger and that Ritchey, Mehl, Schmidt and others were badly used up in Tuesday's game. W. U. P. will not play Saturday, but will give its players a chance to rest for the game with Ohio university, Saturday, November 19, and with State on Thanksgiving day.

WILL SETTLE THE TITLE.

Allegheny and Oakmont Golf Teams Meet Today on Schenley Links.

The Allegheny Country club and the Oakmont Country club will meet on the course of the Pittsburgh Golf club this afternoon to decide the golf team championship in the Western Pennsylvania Golf association. The match is a play-off of a tie, as each team has a clean slate except against each other, each winning a match from the other.

The match of today was played on the Oakmont course October 25, but was thrown out in consequence of a protest against the playing of Dr. D. P. Fredericks by Oakmont, the claim being made that he was not at the time a bona fide member of the club. It is expected that a large gallery will be out today. The match will start at 2 p. m. The lineups will be as follows: Allegheny Country club—E. M. Byers, H. R. Rea, David Baxter, O. D. Thompson, R. P. Nevin, jr., and J. F. Byers. Oakmont Country club—W. C. Fownes, jr., G. A. Ormiston, W. C. Fownes, J. S. Martin, C. B. Fownes and H. C. Fownes. J. F. Byers is a brother of E. M. Byers and is a graduate of last year of Yale college, on whose golf team he was a player.

Fanning Anxious to Fight.

The managers of Charles Fanning of Boston and the unknown met last night and agreed to meet again tomorrow night to make final arrangements for a bout if possible. If they cannot come to terms Fanning will take on Jimmy Scanlon at 165 pounds, or he will do 155 pounds for Eddie Kennedy or Mull Bowser, Kennedy preferred. Fanning is anxious to show the local people what he can do, and he will take on anyone, light or heavy.

WHAT PROVERB CONTEST MEANS

Advantages to Be Derived from The Gazette Competition, Which Opened Yesterday.

IS A SOURCE OF EDUCATION

"A penny for your thoughts" is an old proverb. "A thousand dollars for your thoughts," is a new proverb. The former has distinctive value because of its originality; the latter has a great value because of its greater financial inducements.

It is the latter and newer proverb that illustrates the incentive offered by The Gazette to its readers to gather their thoughts and exercise them to their material and own benefit in solving the educational contest opened by this paper yesterday morning, with the first of a series of 30 illustrations, each representing some well-known English proverb which will be printed from time to time. All will be gems of thought which have emanated from some of the world's greatest men from time to time, and which have lighted the pathway of mankind for years. None are to be obscure, seldom-heard proverbs; all are to be proverbs heard in daily conversation, an in asking its readers to recall them The Gazette offers not alone 67 monetary considerations, but is making an effort to sharpen the minds and recollections of its constituency along lines of marked advantage to men, women and children in every walk of life.

To the lawyer, clergyman and other professional men, this contest should appeal as an examination along a line in which they should be proficient. To the business man it will stimulate interest in the deciphering of long-sustained, logical conclusions. To women it lends both entertainment and educational interest and to the children it offers interest along channels which often do not appear appealing to the child mind. To the children in the schools this contest will be most benefiting. These illustrations, as they will appear from time to time, will in themselves offer each in their turn a lesson in English literature in a most attractive and inviting form that can but lend zest and interest.

Have you deciphered the illustrations which appeared yesterday? Have you solved the picture that appeared today? If so, fill out the respective blank, No. 1 or No. 2, or both, and retain them. Try again tomorrow. See if No. 3 appeals to you easy of solution. Save all your answers until the full 30 illustrations have appeared; then send in your answers on the blanks provided and appearing in The Gazette and when the contest has run its course mail them in proper numerical order to Manager Proverb Contest, The Gazette, Pittsburgh, Pa. While every announcement of the conditions of this contest have specified with emphasis that answer blanks should be retained and not sent in until the full number of illustrations have been published, this condition has already been violated, a score or more answers having been received to the first illustration. In order to afford these contestants another opportunity these blanks have been returned, but hereafter this courtesy cannot be extended, as the conditions are clear and definite.

It is to afford all contestants ample time and proper opportunity to guage their answers carefully that the rule has been established requiring answer blanks to be retained until the conclusion of the contest. Every child is to be given like opportunity as the scholar who for years may have been a student of English literature. In fact the purpose of this contest is to bring all the studiously inclined to the same apex of perfection as those who have opportunity and time to perfect themselves.

Read the conditions very carefully. They will be rigidly enforced. Be careful to get the correct wording. Be careful to punctuate properly. Have every word spelled correctly. This is strictly a contest along educational lines. Take every opportunity of the educational interest it affords. Exactness will prevail.

Contestants may send as many sets of answers as they desire, but each set must be in a separate envelope. Back numbers of The Gazette will be kept on hand and can be had by application in person or by mail at our business office.

In order to insure a fair and impartial distribution of prizes, the correct answers to the 30 proverbs which the 30 illustrations will represent have been sealed and placed in the hands of H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust Company, to remain until the contest closes, at which time Mr. McEldowney will distribute the $1,000 in gold placed with him, according to the conditions of this contest.

If for no other incentive than your own personal benefit, you owe it to yourself to follow and engage in this competition for the mental advancement it affords. The proverbs to be illustrated should be a part of the knowledge of every English speaking man, woman and child. It should be part of your knowledge. Aside from this most important asset the contest offers, you will find the money prizes worth the while as well. The capital prize is $250; second prize $100; two prizes of $50 each, eight of $25 each, 15 of $10 each, and 40 prizes of $5 each. A grand total of $1,000 to be distributed among those sending the nearest complete and correct set of answers. It is not a "send money" scheme. It is not a scheme of any kind. It is a liberal offer of The Gazette to you and for you. Sharpen your wits and save your answer blanks until the finish.

REVENUES SLIGHTLY AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Controller Larkin has issued a statement which shows the revenues of the city for the first nine months of the fiscal year 1904, beginning February 1, were $82,088 12 in excess of the revenues of the same period last year. The total revenues for this year to date are $7,078,-098 07; the same period last year, $6,996,-020 95. But for the fact that there was an increase of $173,652 in the amount of taxes collected, the revenues would have fallen considerably below that of last year, as there is a general reduction in all of the other important items.

The receipts from liquor licenses fell $16,141 below last year. The receipts of the mayor's office from police fines and costs were $24,309 less than last year, vehicle licenses $2,879 less, water rents $39,148 less, delinquent taxess $15,371 loss. There were increases in a number of the smaller items. The following table gives the receipts in detail and a comparison with the revenues of last year:

SOCIETY

THE chimes of old Trinity rang out merrily yesterday afternoon to announce to the world that Miss Rebecca McCullough Darlington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Darlington, had become the wife of Louis Ezekiel Stoddard. The ceremony was performed in the church at 5 o'clock, with the rector, the Rev. Dr. Alfred W. Arundel, officiating. The Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, S. T. D., bishop of the diocese, was present to bestow his episcopal blessing upon the young couple at the close of the service. The sacred edifice presented a rare sight as the bridal party entered the doors, the ushers, Murray W. Dodge and G. F. Stillman of New York, Frank S. Butterworth, Thomas W. Farnum, Ezekiel S. Bronson and Frederick Brewster of New Haven; Malcolm McBride and Clarke Harvey of Cleveland, Harry Darlington, Jr., and Dallas C. Byers of Allegheny, leading the procession. They were followed by the bridesmaids, the first walking alone and the others advancing by twos. They were Miss Marion Chambers of Allegheny, Miss Virginia Bughman of Pittsburgh, Miss Estelle Barbour of Detroit, Miss Catharine North of New York, and Miss Josephine McIlvaine of Philadelphia. Next came Miss Madeline Laughlin, the maid of honor, and after her the three little flower girls, Miss Elizabeth, Miss Margaret and Miss Helen Bennett, daughters of the bride's sister, Mrs. Stephen Bennett of Boston, Mass. The bride, entering on the arm of her father who gave her away, was met at the church stairs by the bridegroom and the best man, Carlos French Stoddard, his brother.

The ceremony was preceded by a musical program, the church organist, Walter Hall, presiding at the organ, which had been presented to the church by Mrs. Darlington in memory of her father, Jacob N. McCullough. Mr. Hall wore his silken hood of the Royal College of Organists. Ninian Yuille sang two numbers from Haydn's "Creation," and also gave the tenor solo in "Hail to the Happy Bridal Day" by Donizetti, which followed Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional. The boy choir gave the beautiful Donizetti number and also the Lohengrin march, to which the bridal party entered.

The gowning of the bride and her attendants was exquisite, carrying out the colors, mauve and pale blue, which predominated in the church decorations. The bridal robe was a creation of regal beauty. The foundation was of soft white satin, over which hung white chiffon, the elaborate trimmings of rose point lace. The bodice and long sleeves were almost entirely of lace, a portion of shirred chiffon edged with a fall of lace giving the latter an elbow effect. Festoons of lace finished the bottom of the skirt, the court train having small ruffles extending some distance up the back. The net lace veil, which had been made for the bride and into which was woven her initials, was caught and fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her ornaments were a pearl necklace and Mr. Stoddard's gift, a bow knot of diamonds, from which swung two star-shaped diamond pendants. The bouquet was of white orchids tied with brocaded white satin ribbon. Miss Laughlin was gowned in mauve chiffon, with a large hat of silver tissue having a double ruffle of maline mauve as trimming. Nestling among its folds at the front was a cluster of blue orchids, which flowers she also carried.

The trimming of the gown was original, two rows of heavy cream lace extending from top to bottom of the skirt, having between them a shirring of mauve satin ribbon. The same design was used in the sleeves, while the same dainty lace of a tiny diamond-shaped pattern was set round and round in the entire bodice, each round alternating with a row of the chiffon. The bouquet was also out of the ordinary in that the shower was formed of the orchids nestling in tiny rosettes of the blue brocaded ribbon with which it was tied. A satin girdle of blue completed the toilette. The toilettes and bouquets of the bridesmaids were duplicates of the honor maid's, differing only as to color, for where the former were blue the latter were mauve, and vice versa. The three little flower girls, carrying dainty green baskets filled with lilies of the valley, wore childish frocks of white mousseline and valenciennes lace hung over pale blue. Their slippers and stockings were of blue and the tam-o'-shanter velvet crown in their hats of the same color. The brims of the hats, trimmed with white satin ribbon, were of wide lace.

The floral decorations, the result of days of careful planning and work, were perfect in every detail. The marble altar, flanked on either side by the lighted candles, gleamed white amid masses of tall palms and ferns, while on it were clusters of white Harisil lilies. On each window sill was a cluster of white chrysanthemums and ferns, and high in the chancel were bunches of the same. Near the top of each large pillar in the body of the church graceful, drooping bouquets of the white blossoms were tied with blue taffeta ribbon, while on each pew and also on the choir seats were festoons of narrow ribbon, lavender orchids and the small-leaved hothouse smilax.

The decorations at the house displayed the same quiet, refined taste and artistic skill. Every one of the long halls in the four-storied home in Irwin avenue, Allegheny, was done in yellow chrysanthemums. All draperies had been removed from the doors and in their stead were huge bunches of the flowers. Under an arch of lavender and yellow orchids the bridal couple, Mrs. Darlington and Mrs. Ezekiel G. Stoddard, mother of the bridegroom, stood to receive the congratulations of their friends. American Beauty roses, arching the doorways, brightened the dark-walled library adjoining, while beyond in the dining room a new species of pink rose not yet christened was used on the tables, buffets and mantel. Two rooms on the second floor were occupied by additional small tables whose centers were occupied by vases of Liberty roses. Very effective was the arrangement of flowers on the winding stairway. Huge bunches of yellow chrysanthemums were placed here and there on the bannisters without regard to spacing. Perhaps the most beautiful of all was the bridal table in the playhouse connected with the house by an awning. The bare walls were made gay with hanging baskets and vases of white lilies, and in the center of the table, where covers were placed for 10, were white roses and lilies of the valley, and here and there over the board were small moss-covered stumps and logs hollowed out and filled with white orchids and valley lilies. Over the table hung a dome of white silk concealing the lights. It was fringed with farleyense fern and studded with orchid clusters.

The wedding gifts displayed on the fourth floor were most gorgeous. Among them was a magnificent chest of flatware in gold and silver, the gift of the bridegroom's parents; a handsome silver tea service from Mrs. Darlington, and a complete set of crystalware from Harry Darlington, Jr. Mr. Darlington's gift, a house and lot, was represented by a toy home with its surrounding grounds, and there was also a tiny brougham. The bride's most intimate friends, who presented silver, gave of one pattern. The countess of Yarmouth sent a handsome bronze bowl and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie's gift was an immense silver loving cup. Another loving cup was from Mr. Stoddard's Yale classmates, and a silver plate service was from the bride's godmother, Mrs. W. G. McCandless. The gift of the best man was a small mirror framed and monogramed in ivory and gold. The maid of honor gave silver candelabra with shades of silver filigree. Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard expect to travel extensively this winter, but will ultimately be at home in New Haven, Conn., where they have taken a furnished house.

The Wilson College Benefit.

The alumnae of Wilson college, under whose auspices the very successful benefit matinee was conducted yesterday afternoon at the Nixon, will realize in the neighborhood of $1,-000 as a result of their work. Miss Annie Russell, in her new play, "Brother Jacques," was the attraction, and at the close of the third act the dainty little actress was presented with a huge bouquet of American Beauty roses of special interest to a number of Pittsburgh friends of Miss Elizabeth Johnson, a daughter of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, was her appearance as the breezy American girl. Her mother, who was to have been one of Mrs. John G. Patterson's guests, telephoned at the last minute that she could not be present. The other boxes were taken by Mrs. Thomas Morrison, Mrs. Alva C. Dinkey, Mrs. George B. Motheral, Mrs. George E. Tener, Mrs. J. M. Lyon, Mrs. James R. Mellon, who gave her box to Miss Alice Thurston; Mrs. W. E. Corey, whose box was occupied by Miss Ada Corey and a party of young friends, Mrs. John W. Fraser as best man and C. Walter Bishop and Dr. Charles J. Ellis as ushers. The bride wore white crepe de chine and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Agnes Custer was gowned in green silk mull and carried white chrysanthemums, while the bridesmaids, with armsful of maidenhair fern, appeared in white silk mull. The house was prettily decorated in the prevailing colors, green and white. After the reception, which was followed by a wedding supper, Mr Bishop and his bride began their wedding journey. Bishop Whitehead an Honor Guest.

The Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, bishop of the diocese, was a guest of honor at the reception given last evening by the Women's Southern society of Pittsburgh. The affair was small and informal, but thoroughly enjoyable. It was conducted in Conservatory hall in Dithridge street with the president, Mrs. Henry Jones Ford with the others officers and Mrs. William G. Coetin and Mrs. Hugh Pendleton Allen, receiving the guests. A musical program had been prepared, among the contributors being Miss Winifred Reanard and Miss Adelle Reanard.

Speer-Mitchell.

An exceedingly beautiful home wedding was that of Miss Nellie Mae Speer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Speer of Friendship avenue, and Byron Chester Mitchell, which took place last evening. Mr. Mitchell is a Beta Theta Pi man and a graduate of State college, and the decorations last evening were carried out in his fraternity colors, pink and blue. The bride, given away by her father, had as her two attendants Miss Mary Speer and Miss Jessie Scott. Walter Kelly of Wheeling, W. Va., served as best man, and the ushers included Eugene Adams McKelvy and Edward Allen Whitward, while the ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Sands of this city. The hour set for the wedding was 7:30 o'clock. The bridal robe of white crepe meteor was elaborately trimmed with tucks and real lace, the skirt with its full court train, having a flounced panel of the lace. A wreath of orange blossoms fastened the tulle veil and the bouquet was of white orchids showered with lilies of the valley. The bride's only ornament was the bridegroom's gift, a diamond pin. The two maids wore gowns of the 1830 period, of pale blue crepe de chine, and carried Madame Chatenay roses, with showers of valley lilies. The decorations were unusually dainty, the pink of Golden Gate roses and the blue of soft chiffon carrying out the predominant colors on the bridal table, placed in an upper room, while through all the lower rooms were large clusters of pink chrysanthemums, with mantle bankings of palms. The porch was enclosed and prettily decorated for the occasion.

In addition to the members of the bridal party, Miss Fay Davis, Miss Margaret Scott and Dr. A. Garland were seated at the bridal table. Among the gifts which the bride received were a Flemish oak cabinet from Mr. Mitchell's fellow employes at the Merchants Savings and Trust Company, and a large leather chair from the directors of the company. Mr. Speer gave his daughter the house adjoining his own residence and there the bridal couple will be at home after April 1. On their return from their wedding trip they will live until spring with Mr. and Mrs. Speer.

SUMMER TOO COLD FOR BEER LOVERS

President of Pittsburgh Brewing Company Reports a Successful Year, Nevertheless.

SURPLUS IS AGAIN INCREASED

Too cold a summer and unfavorable industrial conditions are credited by President F. W. Mueller in his annual report to the stockholders of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, with causing a large decrease in the business of the leading brewing interest of this district.

The report submitted by the officers of the company at the annual meeting yesterday, shows that despite a decrease of 239,631 in the number of barrels of beer sold, and of $1,631,408 in the gross earnings, the company's income was sufficient to pay all operating expenses, meet all interest and dividend charges on both common and preferred stock, allow $320,000 for depreciation, and $54,804 44 to the sinking fund, and still leave a surplus for the year of $180,330 81. The total "net credit balance" on October 29, 1904, is shown to be $2,802,064 71.

The election for the nine directors and one member of the advisory committee resulted in the choice of the former board and of John D. Nicholson to the advisory committee. The re-elected directors are Leopold Vilsack, H. E. Wainwright, F. W. Mueller, E. J. Frauenheim, Fred Gwinner, T. F. Straub, Joseph A. O'Neill, Marcus Aaron and William Ruske.

PITTSBURGH BREWING COMPANY'S OUTPUT 397,703,856 GLASSES

Despite the decrease of over 239,000 barrels in the year's output of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, the figures representing the retail sales of the company's beer last year, 801,161 barrels, reach an amazing size. The bulk of the beer sold is in nickel glasses. Taking the half-pint glass as the average, it will be seen that there were no less than 397,703,856 glasses in the year's output. That would mean as many nickels for beer.

If these nickels were piled one on top of the other the pile would be about 350 miles high. If they were laid out side by side in a row, the row would stretch a distance of about 5,488 miles, or from Pittsburgh across the continent and far out into the Pacific.

PROHIBITIONISTS SATISFIED.

Dr. Swallow Polled About 300,000 Votes and Members of Legislature Are Elected.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—"Prohibitionists are well satisfied with the showing made in the election yesterday," said Oliver W. Stewart, national chairman of the party. "Returns indicate that Dr. Swallow, our presidential candidate, polled at least 300,000 votes and the probabilities are that the final count will carry the number considerably beyond these figures. Our reports at hand show that four of our candidates have been elected to the state legislature in Illinois and we have an even chance of electing another member from one of the districts where the returns are incomplete. Indiana, Ohio and Illinois are showing up best."

Parker Strong in Georgia.

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 9.—Returns from 103 out of 137 counties in Georgia give the Democratic electors 68,680; Republican electors, 18,006, and Populist electors, 16,889. With 29 counties still to be heard from, the Constitution estimates Parker's plurality at about 65,000, which is much larger than was expected. All 11 Democratic congressmen were elected.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION.

Possibly no disease is more general than chronic constipation. The cure is simple, though somewhat tedious. Chronic constipation is usually acquired in youth, either through neglect or through false ideas of modesty. Parents and teacher are often very relax in instructing young people as to the necessities of hygiene. Once chronic constipation is acquired it can only be cured by great patience upon the part of the sufferer. It is only by weeks and possibly months of effort at a certain hour daily, that the bowels can be trained to perform regularly those functions for which nature intended them. Powerful cathartics only bring temporary relief and are often harmful, as they tend to irritate the delicate membranes of the bowels. Honest effort and patience is what is required, with the aid, about twice a week, of a gentle aperient or laxative. Any physician can recommend a proper aperient, though the most popular is Red Raven. This excellent article comes in the form of a bubbling mineral water and is unlike any medicine you ever tried. It is just like taking a draught of a delicious spring but every drop of it is impregnated with health. If you suffer with chronic constipation make your own regular daily effort, and on, say Sunday and Wednesday mornings, before breakfast, take a glass of Red Raven. The price is 15 cents a bottle and is, therefore, within reach of all. If you follow our advice and persevere, you will surely be cured.

FOREIGN MAIL WAS 12 MILLION POUNDS

Government Received $2,579,336 Revenue Over and Above Cost of Moving.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The annual report of Capt. N. M. Brooks, superintendent of foreign mails, shows that, during the last fiscal year, 12,058,048 pounds of mail was dispatched by sea to foreign countries, of which 8,227,191 was for transatlantic destinations, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year. The actual net cost of the service was $2,516,053.

It is estimated that $6,332,222 was received by the postoffice department as postage on articles exchanged with foreign countries, and of that sum the postage collected on mail exchanged with foreign countries, other than Mexico and Canada, aggregated $5,095,389, or $2,579,336 more than the net cost of the service.

The report embodies statistics collected by the Universal Postal union showing that the United States ranks first among the different countries in the number of postoffices, first as to letter boxes for the use of the public, second in proportion of postoffices to population, first in the number of articles of mail matter received by and sent to each inhabitant, first as to the length of mail routes, third as regards the number of letters sent, and first both as to postal income and postal expenditures. It stands eighth in the proportion of postoffices to area.

SWALLOW AND DEBS HAVE MADE LARGE GAINS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Incomplete returns for Swallow, Prohibition candidate for president, indicate he received about 40,000 votes. In 1900 the Prohibition vote was 27,908. The vote for Debs, the Socialist candidate is largely in excess of that cast in 1900, when the party's candidate received 4,831 votes in Pennsylvania.

International Dinner Party in New York Sings Praise of the President.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Theodore Roosevelt was the name which tonight kindled the enthusiasm of the representatives of four nations, England, Japan, France and the United States, who feasted at Delmonico's, in honor of the birthday of King Edward VII.

Under the auspices of the British Schools and Universities club this demonstration of international amity took place. It was a mingling of "America" and "God Save the King," "Vive la France" and of "Banzai." In turn, there were toasts for the cordial relations between England and America, the Anglo-French entente, the English-Japanese alliance, and all nationalities joined in singing the praise of the newly-elected president of the United States.

First, a cable message was read from the king of England thanking the society for the congratulations sent him through the medium of the secretary. It was greeted with loud cheers.

The president's letter of regret that he could not accept the invitation of the club to be present caused a demonstration for Mr. Roosevelt, which continued for several minutes.

Baron Kentaro, a former minister of justice of Japan, and a member of a Japanese house of peers, who is a graduate of Harvard, in the course of an address on the "Yellow Peril," said:

"The general plan in Japan is to associate ourselves with the Anglo-Saxon race. And by education and government we are moulding ourselves into a high type that we hope will some day stand for a Japanese-Anglo-Saxon union. The great aim of Japan is to assimilate ourselves with western culture. With this aim, Japan will never become a yellow peril, but will become one of the dominant and powerful civilized nations of the globe."

Illinois Republican Plurality Makes Good Second to the Splendid Record of Pennsylvania.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The returns from the state outside of Chicago have come in slowly, but those that have been received contain little comfort for the Democratic party, as they steadily increase the plurality for President Roosevelt. The figures tonight show that he has carried the state by over 290,000. The plurality of Deneen for governor is placed at 274,000. The Republicans have made heavy gains in the state legislature and will have a majority of 60 on joint ballot.

In congress Illinois has gained six Republicans, the Democrats retaining but two districts in the state. The two Democratic congressmen will be Henry T. Rainey in the Twentieth district and Martin D. Foster, in the Twenty-third.

SOCIALISTS MAY WIN AT NEXT ELECTION

TERRE HAUTE, IND., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Eugene V. Debs, Socialist-Labor candidate for the presidency, writes as follows: "The Socialist vote in every part of the country has been enormously increased. The state of Illinois alone will probably cast a larger Socialist vote this year than was cast in all the United States four years ago. In four years more the Socialist party may sweep the United States."

Result in McKinley's County.

CANTON, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Roosevelt's plurality in Stark county was 9,060. McKinley's was 2,500 in 1900.

TWO DEALS FOR HOUSES THAT PAY

C. H. Adelman Buys 2524-2536 Wylie Avenue for $29,000. Hazelwood Houses Sold.

NORTH HIGHLAND SITE SOLD

Two deals made yesterday indicate the growing demand for renting properties that will pay a good revenue and are well located. The larger sale was made by the Commonwealth Real Estate Company through S. Markowitz, the property being seven brick houses at 2524-2536 Wylie avenue, Thirteenth ward. They are eight-room dwellings with modern conveniences and stand on 147x90 feet facing on the south side of the avenue, near Watt street. H. C. Bair of the Bair & Gazzam Manufacturing Company was the former owner, and the buyer was C. H. Adelman, the Fifth avenue jeweler. The consideration was $29,000, on which the property pays an income of about 9.7 per cent, the rent of each house being $400 a year.

The other deal referred to was the sale of seven houses in Hazelwood through the office of E. A. Hornberger. They were owned by John D. Sweeney and were purchased by Thomas Dalzell of Allegheny. The houses are seven-room bricks built in a row, and occupy about 140x60 feet in Blair street, near Tecumseh street. They were sold for $16,500 and rent for $158 a year each.

Means Another Fine Residence.

The Seely lot, one of the finest building sites in the Nineteenth ward, is reported sold to a local iron manufacturer for about $15,000. The lot measures 60x180 feet and is on the east side of North Highland avenue, between Stanton avenue and Jackson street. It is near the Oswald Werner home and almost opposite the residences of E. M. Bigelow, A. C. Schultz and E. M. Woods. The buyer, it is said, will improve the site with a $40,000 residence at once.

Sigmund Lenchner has bought from Lyda M. Crow 48x100 feet at the southeast corner of Clark and Townsend streets, Eighth ward, for $24,500. The property is improved with a number of houses.

Ellen V. Burkle has sold to Isaac O. McMinn 70x8 feet at the northeast corner of Bennett street and Murtland avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $12,500. A brick house stands on the site.

David R. Miller has sold to Sarah W. Fester a residence property 35x70 feet in Sheridan avenue, near Rodman street, Nineteenth ward, for $12,000.

Downtown Leases More Frequent.

A radical sign of better times coming is the increase in the number of leases for business properties signed lately. Yesterday the Real Estate Trust Company leased to Otto E. Oetting, the hatter, the first floor corner store room in the Bissell block at Smithfield street and Seventh avenue for five years at $4,000 a year. The room is 20x32 feet and will be remodeled and refitted at once to make it an up-to-date store room. The improvements planned will cost at least $6,000. This makes a total of over $500,000 worth of downtown leases that the Real Estate Trust Company has closed within the last 10 days, and other firms that make a specialty of renting downtown properties report similar success.

Architect W. A. Thomas has let the contract to John A. O'Hara for two three-story brick apartment buildings to be erected for Mrs. Knowlson in Locust street at a cost of $19,000.

Dr. John R. Morrow is taking bids on two brick-veneered houses which he will build at Negley boulevard and McClure avenue at a cost of $12,000.

St. Michael's Roman Catholic congregation of Homestead is considering the proposition of selling its holdings at Third and Dickson streets, as this building will not be needed after the new church at Ninth and Library streets is completed. It has been proposed to convert the old church into an apartment house, but the majority of the members favor a sale. The new church will cost $40,000, and will be completed in about three months.

Two New Realty Firms Announced.

The real estate business is brightening up in a way that is attracting new firms every week, and two additions to the long list of local realty concerns were announced yesterday. One will be John K. Ewing & Co., that firm name having been known in Pittsburgh for years previous to 1901. John K. Ewing, the head of the firm, is probably as well known as any real estate man in Pittsburgh, having been in the business 11 years, starting in a small office in Federal street, Allegheny. Later he had offices in Fourth avenue and was prominent in some of the largest deals put through in the city. In 1901 Mr. Ewing organized the Union Realty Company, of which he was vice president. This was later merged into the Iron City Trust Company, with a capital of $2,000,000. Last year Mr. Ewing withdrew from the later concern and opened offices in Philadelphia, devoting his time to the organization of industrial firms and placing large loans of eastern money. Among the deals he closed there was the formation of the National Cutlery Company, with a capital of $500,000. He has lately purchased his release from the Iron City Trust Company and has opened fine suite of offices on the fifth floor of the old Tradesmen building at Fourth avenue and Wood street. In addition to doing a general real estate business, the firm will make a specialty of handling eastern funds, to which they have ready access. Two well-known salesmen have already been engaged and a large deal is likely to be announced by the firm this week.

The other new real estate firm will be known as the Verner Realty Company and will be found at 504 Frick building. The members are Henry W. Verner and H. W. Blackley. Mr. Verner is a practical civil engineer and has been a real estate operator in this city for several years. Mr. Blackley was formerly of the firm of Jacobs & Blackley of Homestead and later served 11 years in the Allegheny county recorder's office. The firm will handle the usual lines of real estate, and in addition will make a specialty of mineral lands.

BIGGEST, BROADEST MARKET IN STOCKS THIS YEAR

Buying Power Exceeded All Expectations, and Prices Closed Higher All Around—Bank Shares Led the Advance in Pittsburgh.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The stock market yesterday was the biggest and broadest of the year, both in New York and Pittsburgh. Professional traders were disposed to take profits on the initial advance, but the buying power of the public exceeded all expectations, and prices closed higher all around. In New York the sales for the first hour approximated 750,000 shares, for the two hours they amounted to 1,400,000 shares, and for the day to 2,837,000 shares, being the largest transactions since May, 1901.

The decisive character of the election and the early hour at which definite results were ascertained on Tuesday enabled the international houses to place buying orders in London, which had the advantage by five hours over the opening of the market in New York. London quotations came strong at advances ranging from 1 to 2 per cent. The net gains on this side over the closing quotations on Monday were not quite so large as those in London, and as a consequence there was some recession shortly after the opening. The market absorbed all offerings, however, and from noon until the close of the session the volume of business increased, the market strengthened and prices reached the highest average of the year. The following table will show at a glance the net results for the day, comparison being made with the final sale on Monday and the final sale yesterday:

At one time during the day the industrials threatened to dominate the market, and United States Steel was again a center of interest. Later the railroads became very active, and on heavy buying Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Rock Island and the Gould issues, the railroad list took the lead. Reactions occurred from time to time, but these were insignificant, considering the extent of the advance and the urgency of dealers in filling orders.

Aside from the election news there was very little to influence values. Call loan rates remained easy and unchanged all day at 2 to 2¼ per cent. Commission house business increased enormously, and while the more conservative were advising caution, the tone of advances was bullish. In a market so broad, and with prices at the highest level of the year, sharp reactions are to be expected, and in some banking circles the admonition is made of the possibility of higher rates for money. It has been announced that a new Japanese loan of $60,000,000 will come out this week, and it is said that one-half the amount has been underwritten in New York. The flotation of this loan may mean additional gold exports, which, if they occur before the return of currency from the interior, would naturally cause a stiffer money market. However, there was too much enthusiasm in yesterday's market to admit of admonitions on the possibility that the market may be getting dangerously high.

The dealings on the Pittsburgh stock exchange were the largest of the year, and the business was better distributed than at any previous time this year. No particular stock overshadowed all the others, and there were no heavy blocks changing hands. On the contrary, the average of transactions was less than 50 shares each, indicating that the smaller traders among the public were coming into the market. The largest advances occurred in the bank and trust company shares. Colonial Trust sold up to 385, an advance of $24 a share over the last sale on Monday. Safe Deposit sold at 425, an advance of $15 a share. Real Estate Trust was 8 per cent higher at 240, and Iron City Trust 4 per cent at 130. The most active of the industrial list was Pittsburgh Coal preferred, which advanced to 77, the highest of the year. River Coal preferred also advanced 1¼ points to 26. Crucible Steel common led its group, and closed ¾ per cent higher at 7⅞. The preferred stock advanced to and closed at 45. United States Steel common and preferred were active, but closely followed the quotations in the east. Westinghouse Airbrake closed unchanged at 138, but Electric closed 1¼ higher at 86¾.

There was an active demand for pig iron warrants, and sales reached 4,300 tons. Southern iron advanced to $17 35 bid for November delivery, and Bessemer sold at $15 cash, an advance of 50 cents a ton over the last previous sale.

PIG IRON MARKET IS STILL ACTIVE

Both Spot Sales and Contracts for 1905 Produce Higher Range of Price.

BILLETS MAY BE INCREASED

The pig iron market continues to attract the closest attention from iron and steel interests. The demand continues unabated, although the margin of available supply is growing very narrow. It was stated by one producer yesterday that he doubted the possibility of securing at $15 any considerable quantity of Bessemer at the valley furnaces. No. 2 foundry is said to have sold as high as $16, Pittsburgh.

The figures on production are expected to show some effect from the difficulty in securing sufficient coke of the proper grade. The scarcity of water in the Connellsville district has been the main factor in producing this trouble.

The Lackawanna Steel Company is credited with having secured 500 tons a day of coke for the year. Its average needs will be about double that quantity, and it is generally believed there will be no chance to secure this from any one large producer, as the output of the principal coke concerns has been secured for the entire year.

The committee having charge of the affairs of the Billet association is to meet within a few days to discuss the question of increasing the official price of billets. This price was placed at $19 50, after several months of disturbance, and has held there steadily. The increase in the price of Bessemer iron about $2 50 a ton since the billet meeting has made the conversion difference too small, it is argued, and a price of $21 or $21 50 is now expected to be established.

The market in the finished lines is active. Not only the United States Steel Corporation's concerns, but the independent steel manufacturers are being benefited by the changed conditions. The positive character of the national election's result is expected to add to this demand.

The Hardware Market.

The hardware business continues to move along in about the same manner as at our last report, orders coming in freely from all points both through salesmen and from the trade direct, these orders being for good quantities and nice lines. The fact of the election being settled will doubtless have a tendency to steady business considerably, so that from now forward the trade will go ahead without any feeling that they "must wait until after the election." The demand continues exceedingly large for nails and wire, an immense tonnage of these goods moving. Season goods also continue to move out in large quantities, the largest demand for years continuing in stoves, stove pipe, coal hods, sheet iron, gas goods and such home comforts. A very large business is also going on guns, ammunition and sporting goods. Prices in many lines have a tendency upward, prospects indicating, as far as can be learned, higher prices. The Bindley Hardware Company furnishes the following quotations:

Columbia pocket knives, discount 35 per cent; Albion hatchets, discount 40 and 10 per cent; Bindley canal shovels, $6 50 the dozen; Great Western files, discount 70 and 10 per cent; cheese knives, base No. 20, $2 per 100 pounds, galvanized sheet iron, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sash weights, the ton, $27; window glass—L. PIG IRON CONSUMPTION SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

During October a Heavier Output Was Absorbed and Stocks Drawn Upon.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Iron Age tomorrow will say:

Our monthly blast furnace statistics are interesting as showing that consumption has further developed during October, since it absorbed an increased output, and, in addition thereto, drew upon stocks to a moderate extent. The production has risen to 1,448,973 gross tons for October, for 31 days, as compared with 1,352,677 tons for September, for 30 days. The steel companies made 971,447 tons in October, against 933,444 tons in September, a modest increase. The merchant furnaces, however, have gone from 418 183 tons in September to 477,526 tons in October. Taking into account the decline in stocks, the consumption of metal produced by the merchant furnaces has grown from 450,641 tons in August to 491,557 tons in September and 503,-949 tons in October.

In connection with the returns of the stocks of the merchant furnaces it is a notable fact that the southern group shows a slight gain, having 192,284 tons on November 1, as compared with 190,003 tons on October 1. This is due to the fact that some furnace companies have evidently been holding back in selling product, while others have drawn quite heavily on their yards. On November 1 the stock of pig iron was 529,033 tons, as compared with 550,447 tons on October 1.

Buying in every line except rails is on a large scale, but more especially in pig iron, merchant pipe, wire, bars, plates and sheets. The demand for tin plate now shows an improvement, and buying for export will keep with the movement in other lines. Particularly heavy blocks of Bessemer pig iron have been sold in the central west, some large lots long held for an advance having been sold for consumption.

A meeting of the billet association is to be held in this city next week. Prices continue to gather strength at all premiums are being paid of 50 cents a ton over the billet and spot bars. It is stated that one maker asked a premium of $2 and got it. This independence of agreed prices is making itself felt in other directions. Eastern bar iron makers are asking a premium of $1 a ton over their association prices, and a western steel maker has advanced his price on soft steel bars $2 a ton without regard to other makers. This may be significant of a change in the policy of t hese manufacturers, who sacrificed golden opportunities two years since in adhering to an agreed price when they might easily have obtained considerably more. It is quite possible that the buyer is not hereafter to be given the consideration which he received during that well-remembered period of excited demand.

Sales of rails are confined to small lots, and no large business is expected until the price is fixed for next year. No date has yet been named for the meeting of the associated rail manufacturers.

The eastern cast iron pipe trade is looking up materially. Large consuming interests are arranging to cover their requirements for next season in anticipation of higher prices. This is unusually early.

Old material is in strong demand and prices are still advancing at all consuming centers. Heavy melting steel scrap is particularly the object of inquiry, in sympathy with Bessemer pig iron.

Copper is very strong. The heavy foreign demand is causing domestic consumers to wake up to a realization of the possibilities.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The market for coffee futures showed greater activity and considerable firmness. It opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 5 points in response to rather disappointing cables, but almost at once did better on a larger outside demand and continued bull support. Liquidation of long lines as prices worked upward seemed to make the only pressure against the market, which at one time was about 10@15 points net higher. Later part of the advance was lost under realizing and the market was finally barely steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 15c. Sales were reported of 116,000 bags, including December at 6.95@7.05c, and January 7.00@7.10c, March at 7.25@7.35c, May at 7.35@7.50c, July at 7.55@7.75c, September at 7.70@7.85c, October at 7.75@7.85c. EVERYBODY TOO HAPPY TO DO ANY BUSINESS

All Market Lines Dull, but Dealers Pleased With Result of the Election.

Everybody seemed too happy to talk business in the local markets yesterday, and only a fair day followed the great election. Every line held firm and there was no change in prices in any class of goods. Improvement in the situation is looked for about the latter part of the week and produce men particularly look for good times then.

Butter men are looking for another advance of 1 cent a pound next Monday, although some of them claim the product is as high now as it dares to go. There are a few, however, who predict that the prices at Elgin will be 30 cents by the last of this month and that will mean 35 cents in Pittsburgh.

As an accompaniment to the turkeys now coming in, herbs for seasoning have been put on sale. They are having a lively run and are one of the surest indications that people are settling down to their winter diet.

Chestnut flour was placed on sale by the Italo-American company for the first time yesterday and a steady demand for the product was noted. It comes in 50-pound cases, is imported direct, and sells at $4 50 a case. The custom house fees on the lot was over $400.

In the grocery line everything was quiet yesterday. The wholesalers were all pleased with the result of the election and look now for a gradual resumption of business which will approach the proportions of a boom along about the holidays and continue good.

Receipts yesterday of fruit and produce were light and were as follows: Apples, 5 cars, making 167; bananas, 3 cars, making 15; cabbage, 2 cars, making 71; oranges, 1 car, making 5; potatoes, 6 cars, making 104; turnips, 1 car, making 5.

HAY AND GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Hay and grain receipts in the local market yesterday were as follows: Pennsylvania lines, 5 cars hay, 12 cars oats, 6 cars corn, 2 cars corn and oats, 4 cars feed, 1 car straw, 1 car rye; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 2 cars hay, 2 cars corn, 1 car oats; Baltimore & Ohio, 18 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 2 cars corn, 1 car corn and oats.

The hay and grain market was dull yesterday and did not seem to have recovered from the election. No. 2 white middlings and No. 1 brown went up a half dollar a ton, while No. 2 yellow shelled corn rose a half cent. Aside from these changes there was nothing of importance to note, the market seeming very quiet and dead.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

Pennsylvania lines officials contemplate the reconstruction of the dining car department. Charles Watts, general superintendent of passenger transportation, and E. W. Westlake, superintendent of the dining car service, returned yesterday from Columbus, arranging a change which will be temporary. Columbus is to be made the headquarters of the department. Plans have been completed for a substantial brick building to cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. It is the intention of the officials to abolish the commissary department at Chicago and establish the headquarters of the dining car service of the Panhandle at Columbus. Temporarily the dining car commissary of the Panhandle at Columbus has been discontinued, and the dining cars formerly stocked at that point will be supplied at Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh. J. F. Karch, who has been the commissary agent in Columbus, has been appointed dining car inspector.

Novel Scheme of the Erie.

President D. F. Underwood of the Erie has created an employment bureau and appointed W. Hayes as superintendent. The object of the bureau is to learn the qualities of the employes and when a vacancy occurs to put the most capable man into the position. So far as possible the civil service plan will be continued, providing the men are worthy of promotion.

Cheap Rates to Pacific Coast.

The Pennsylvania lines yesterday put into effect low rates to the Pacific coast. The tickets are valid until December 31, and good to all points, including Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver. The rates promise to be taken advantage of by a large number of people. Several tickets were sold yesterday.

To Stop Reconsigning.

The local roads represented in the Ohio Coal Traffic association have agreed to abolish on December 1 the system of reconsigning coal at distributing points and probably at Toledo. Notices are being sent out by the railroads.

Railroad Notes.

The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company has consolidated the Lehigh & Lackawanna and the Wind Gap & Delaware railroads into a new line to be known as the Lehigh & New England road.

E. E. Reading, chief clerk in the office of division superintendent of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, has gone on a two weeks' hunting trip.

W. J. Black, general passenger agent of the Santa Fe, was seriously injured in a Missouri Pacific wreck a few days ago.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The October production of the Shannon Copper Company, as reported from Boston, aggregated 1,022,000 pounds, which brings the production for the 10 months of the current year up to 10,065,100 pounds. There is reason to believe that Treasurer Hazen will be elected to the presidency of the company at the coming annual meeting.

With the close of navigation but a few weeks distant, copper is being rushed down the great lakes in order to secure the saving in rates. While the season of navigation will not come to a final close until the middle of December, the copper country ports, which are located on Portage and Torch lakes, arms of Lake Superior, will be blocked by ice fully four weeks earlier.

At the Phoenix Consolidated mine in Keweenaw county some good-sized masses of copper are being taken from the St. Clair shaft. Many pieces of metal weighing from 300 to 500 pounds each are hoisted each week and some weighing as much as 3,000 pounds are secured.

Thomas F. Coles, James Hoatson and D. F. Woodward, reported to be acting for Calumet and Hecla interests, have closed arrangements for the purchase of the Copper Chief group of claims, near Jerome, Ariz. The consideration is given at from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Work on the new smelter at Cooke City, Park county, has been commenced by the New World Smelter Company, composed of Seattle and Montana men, and, according to advices from Cooke, will be prosecuted during the remainder of the fall and winter. It is the intention to have the plant finished by next summer. The smelter will have a daily capacity of 100 tons. The furnace was bought in Philadelphia and will be shipped some time during the winter. F. C. Byrne of Red Lodge, Mont., is to be local superintendent.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Tin advanced to £132 15 5d for spot and £132 for futures in the London market, or a gain of about £1 as compared with the closing prices of last Monday, and the local market ruled steady with spot held higher in consequence, although demand was limited. Quotations range from $28 87½ to 29 25. Copper also was higher in London, closing at £65 6s 3d for spot and £64 5s for future. Locally the market was also firm and showed an advancing tendency, with lak quoted at $13 87½@14 12½; electrolytic at 13 87½@14 00; casting at $13 62½@14 00. Lead closed at £13 in the London market, representing a moderate advance since last Monday. Locally quotations were unchanged, ranging from $4 20 to $4 50 for the spot delivery, the inside quotation being for carlots. Spelter was higher in both markets, closing at £24 in London and at $5 40@5 45 in New York. Iron closed at 51s 3d in Glasgow and at 45s 10½d in Middlesboro. Locally iron is firm. No. 1 foundry southern and No. 1 foundry southern soft at $15 50@16 00; No. 2 foundry northern at $15 00@15 50.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Copper was very firm today. Twelve hundred tons of the metal were sold. It closed at 63¾.
